This we believe...

WESTERN HILLS HIGH SCHOOL • CINCINNATI, OHIO

Seniors graduating from Western Hills High School in June of 1956 pause thoughtfully on the brow of one of Cincinnati's lovely hills and look beyond the clustered houses, the winding river, and the busy town—look, with dreamy eyes, into the future. What does it hold for them? What does it promise? No one can say. No blueprint for success is awarded with the diploma. Each graduate must determine his own purpose in life and seek the means of fulfilling it. Each one must form a basic philosophy which will guide him in this atomic age. To assist in the formulation of such a philosophy the Annual Staff has produced this book with its theme THIS WE BELIEVE.

LEADERSHIP . . . We take an informal look behind the scenes at our teachers and administrators; at the activities of the parents organizations; at the functions of Student Council, Annual and "Breeze" staffs. . . . page 17

ABILITY . . . We explore the school subjects which help to give us the abilities needed to get along in the world: math, science, languages, social studies, art, industrial arts, home economics, and business. . . . page 33

TALENT . . . We find a few of our gifted students in their hour of glory: in Bandwagon, Senior Choir, Senior Class Play, Band, Orchestra, assembly, and Cum Laude. . . . page 49

SKILL . . . We develop skill and a fine sense of sportsmanship through participation in athletics. Gym classes, individual sports, group sports, G.A.A., and Maroon W provide an opportunity for all. . . . page 65

FELLOWSHIP . . . We have fellowship together in many ways: academically, in Future Nurses Club and Scientific Honor Society; socially, in sororities, fraternities, and language clubs; spiritually, in Bible Club and Y groups. . . . page 97

FRIENDSHIP . . . We look back upon the year —the fun, the friends, the happiness—grade by grade, day by day, until we reach the climax, graduation. . . . page 113

This we believe...

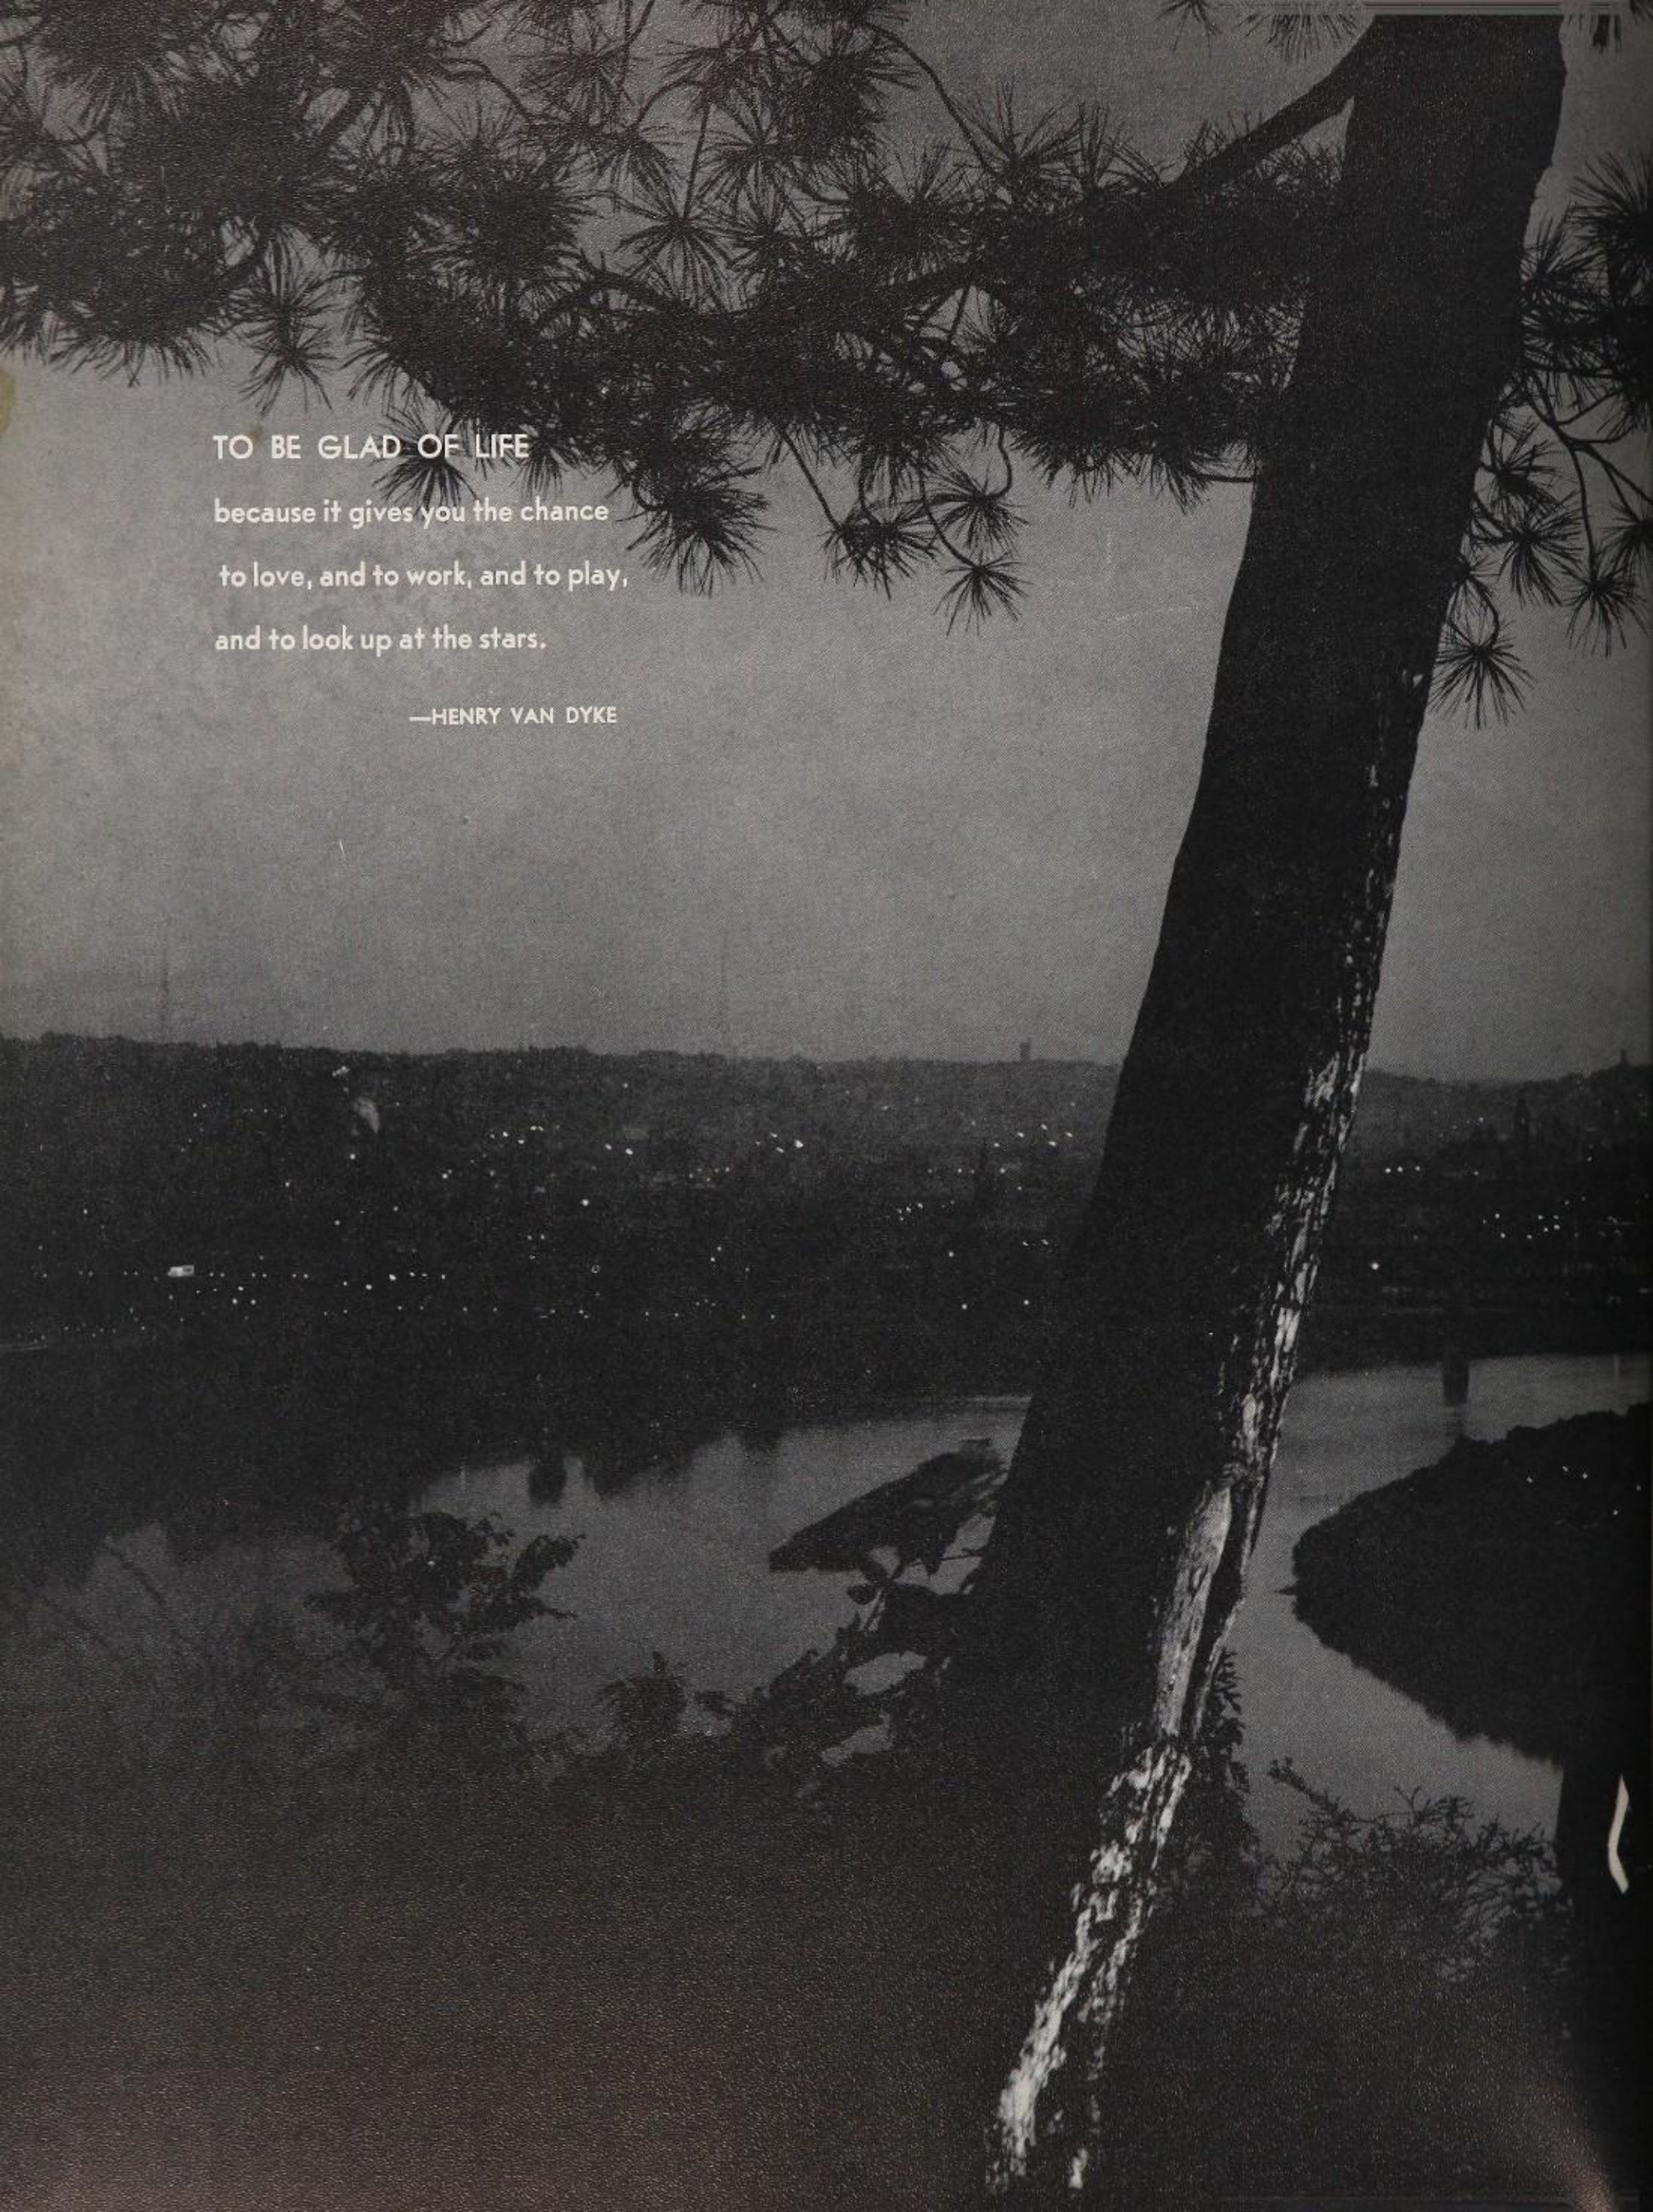
TO BE GLAD OF LIFE

TO TRUST IN GOD

TO CHERISH FRIENDS

TO FIND HUMOR IN ALL THINGS

TO PROMOTE LEARNING



TO BE GLAD OF LIFE

because it gives you the chance to love, and to work, and to play, and to look up at the stars.

—HENRY VAN DYKE

TO TRUST IN GOD

There is no unbelief;

Whoever plants a seed beneath the sod

And waits to see it push away the clod,

He trusts in God.

—BULWER-LYTTON

TO CHERISH FRIENDS

'Tis the human touch in this world that counts,

The touch of your hand in mine;

Which means far more to the fainting heart

Than bread, and shelter, and wine;

For shelter is gone when the night is o'er

And bread lasts only a day,

But the touch of the hand and the song of the voice

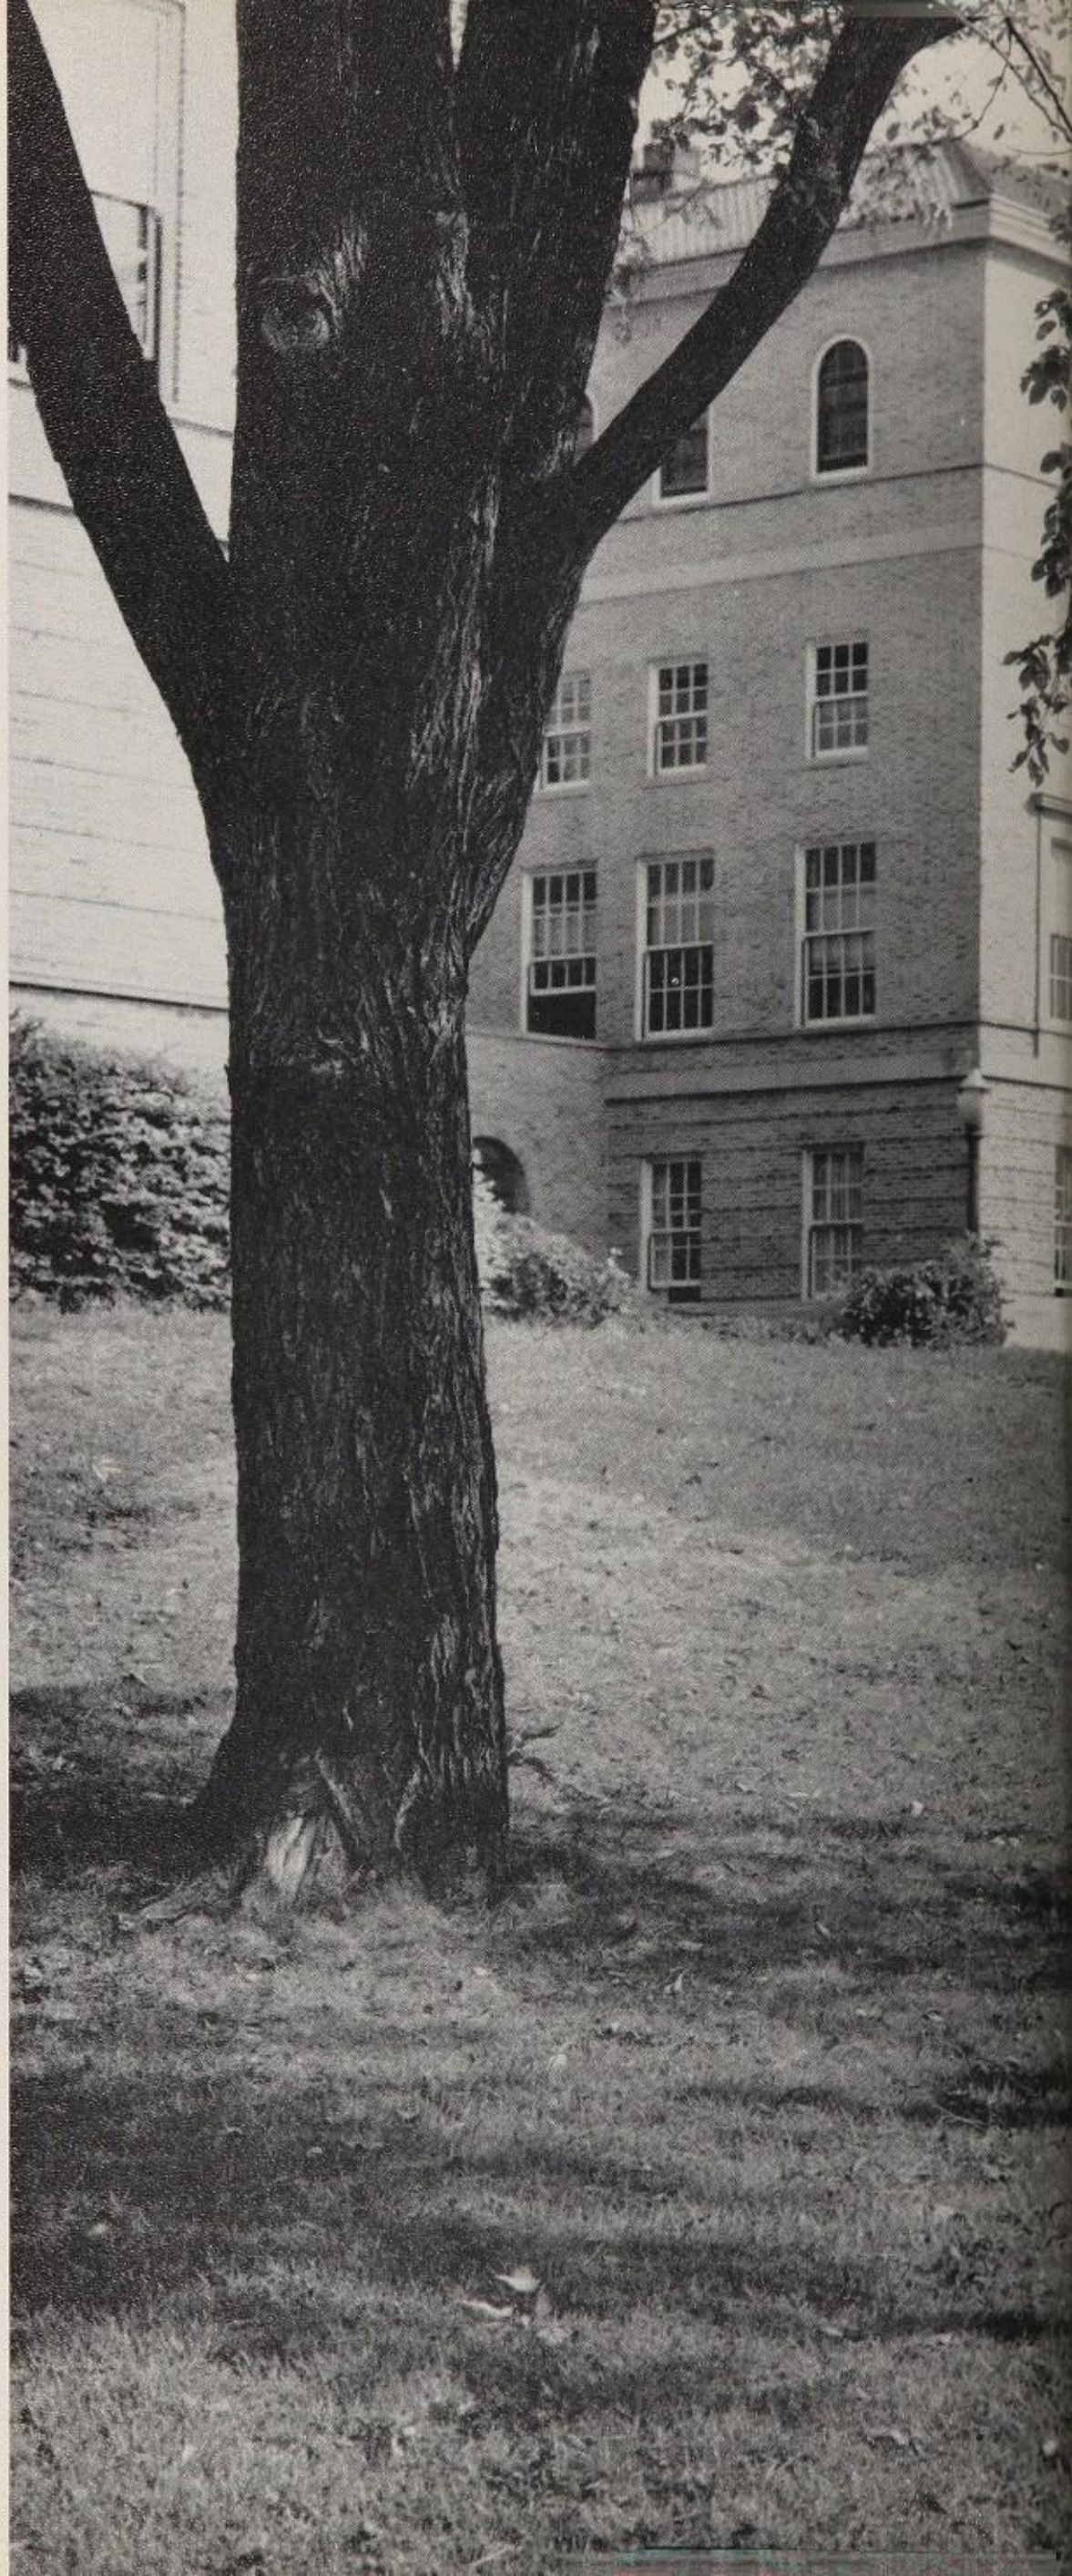
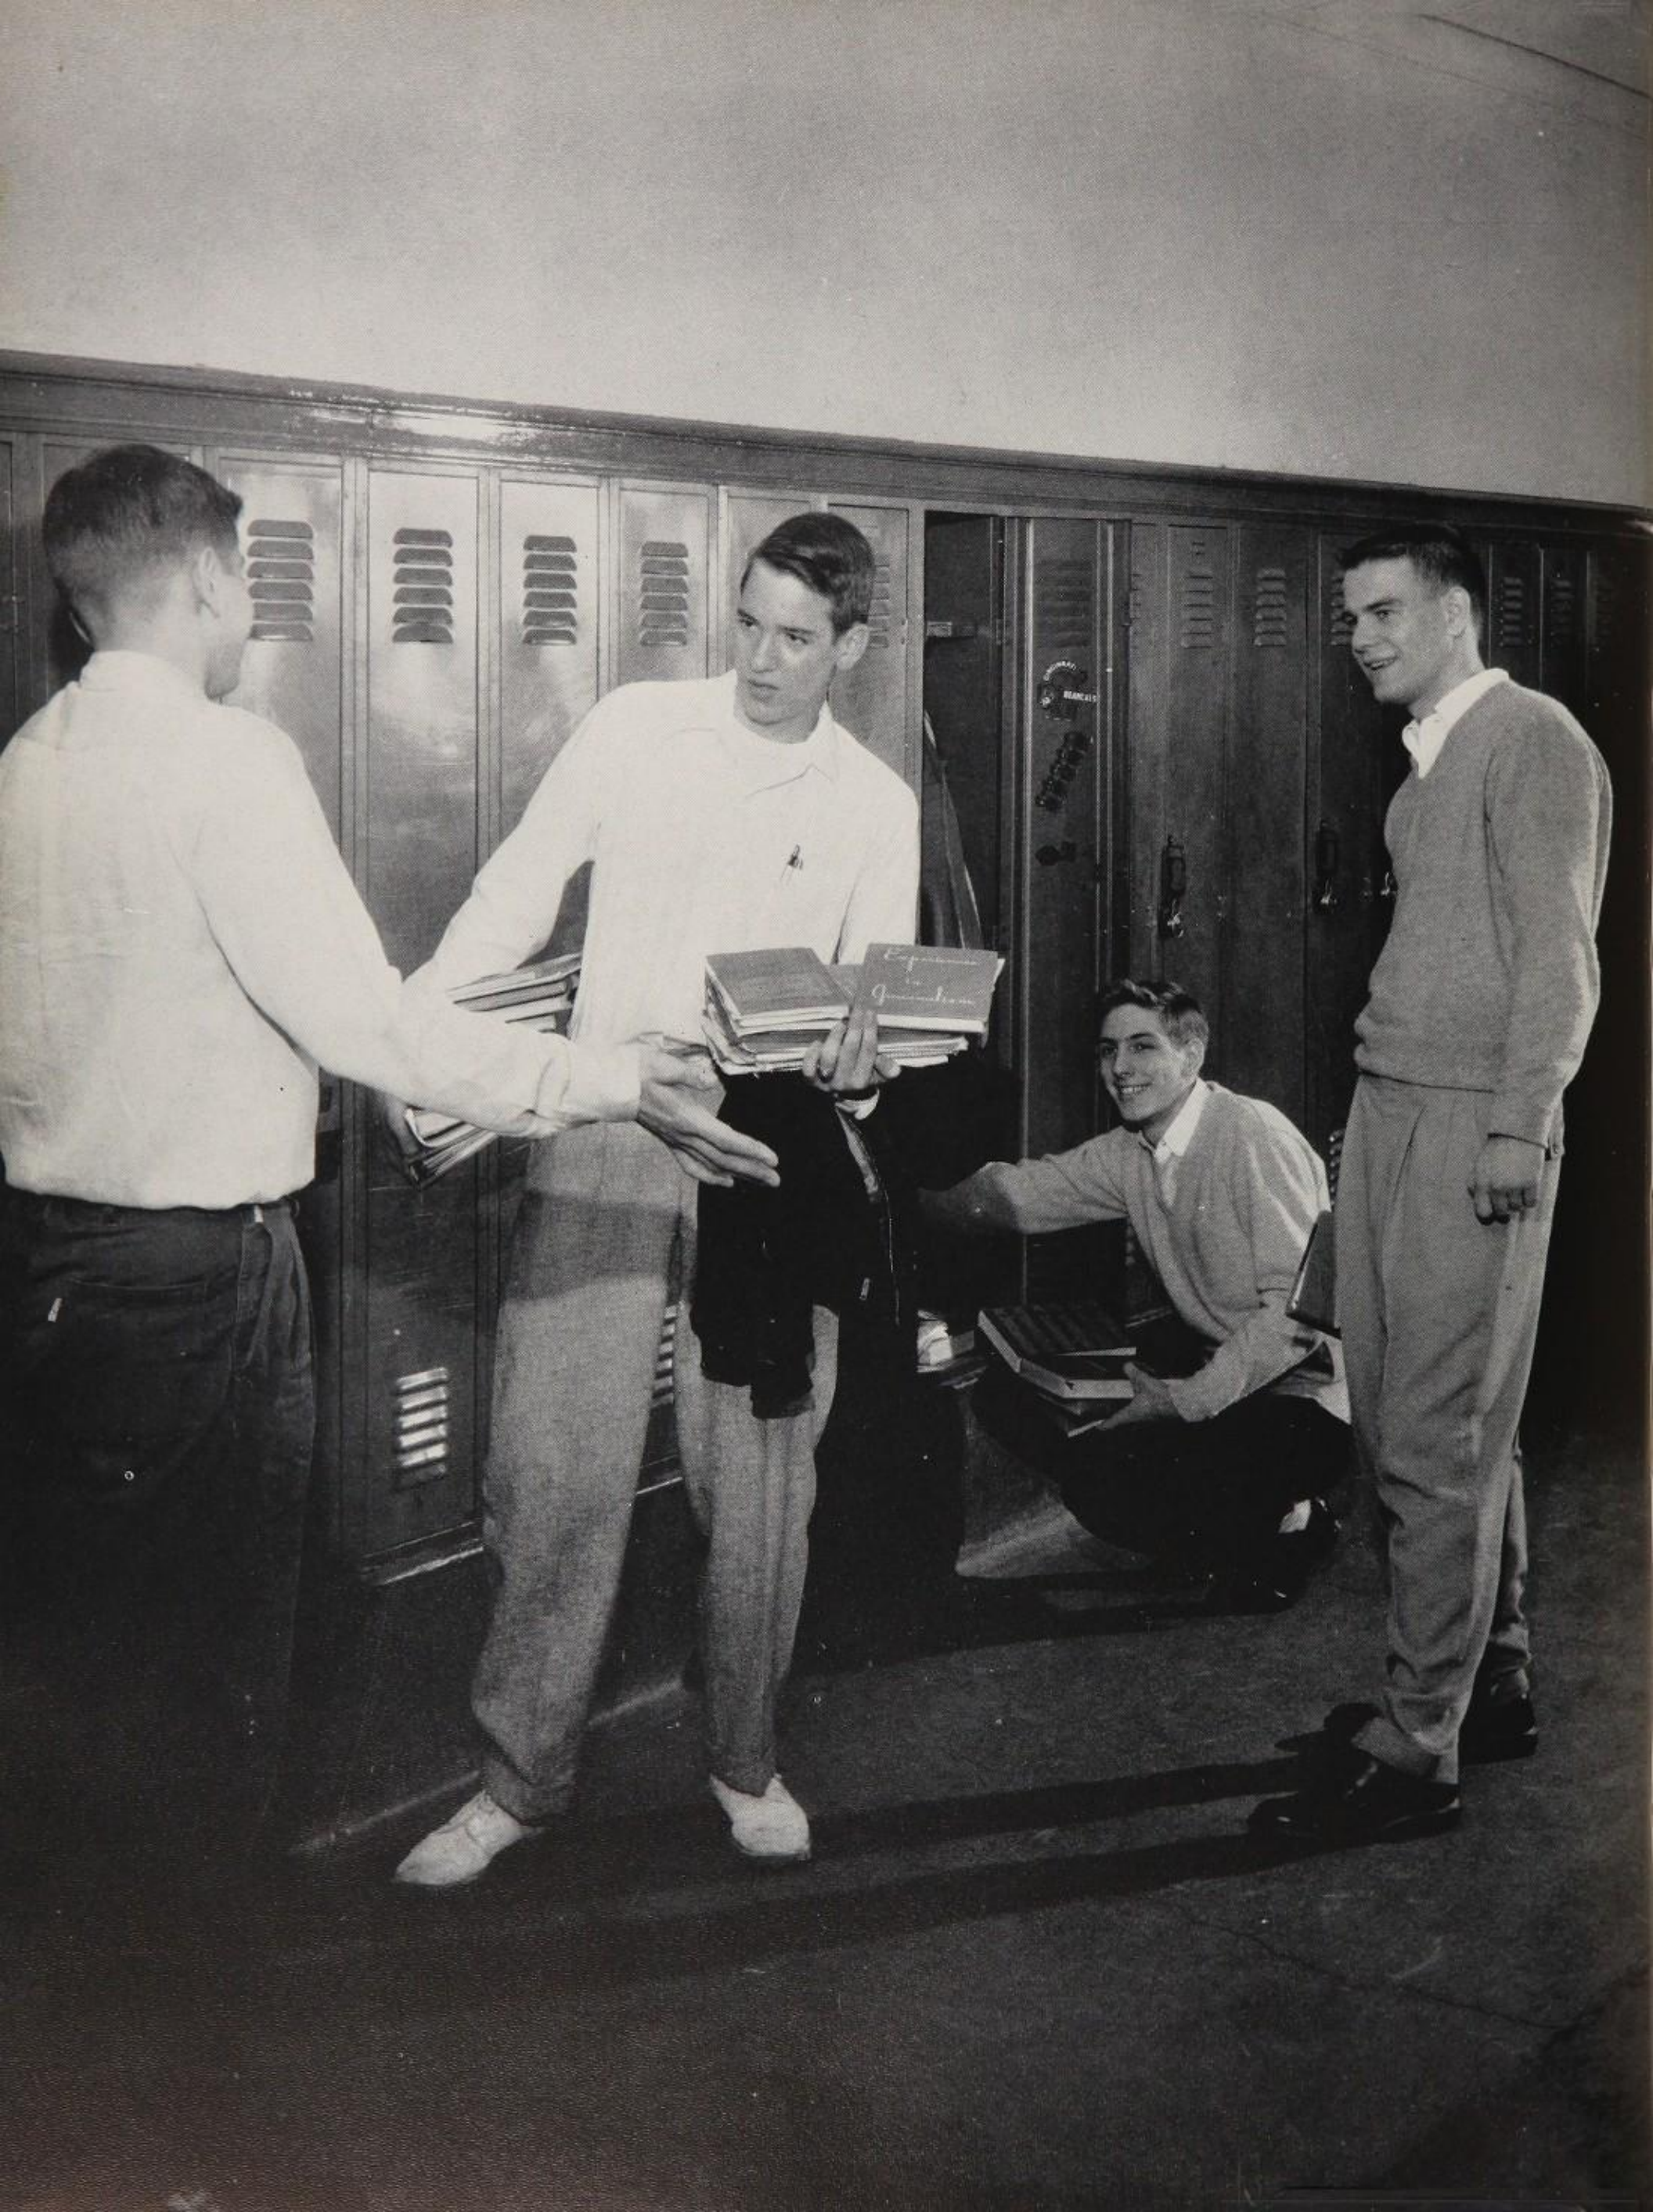
Live in the soul alway.

—SPENCER MICHAEL FREE





TO FIND HUMOR IN ALL THINGS

Look you, there is humor in all things and the truest philosophy is that which teaches us to find it and make the most of it.

—GILBERT & SULLIVAN

WHAT—1824 LOCKERS AND NOT ONE FOR ME?

TO PROMOTE LEARNING

Religion, morality and knowledge, being necessary to good government and the happiness of mankind, schools and the means of education shall forever be encouraged.

Leadership

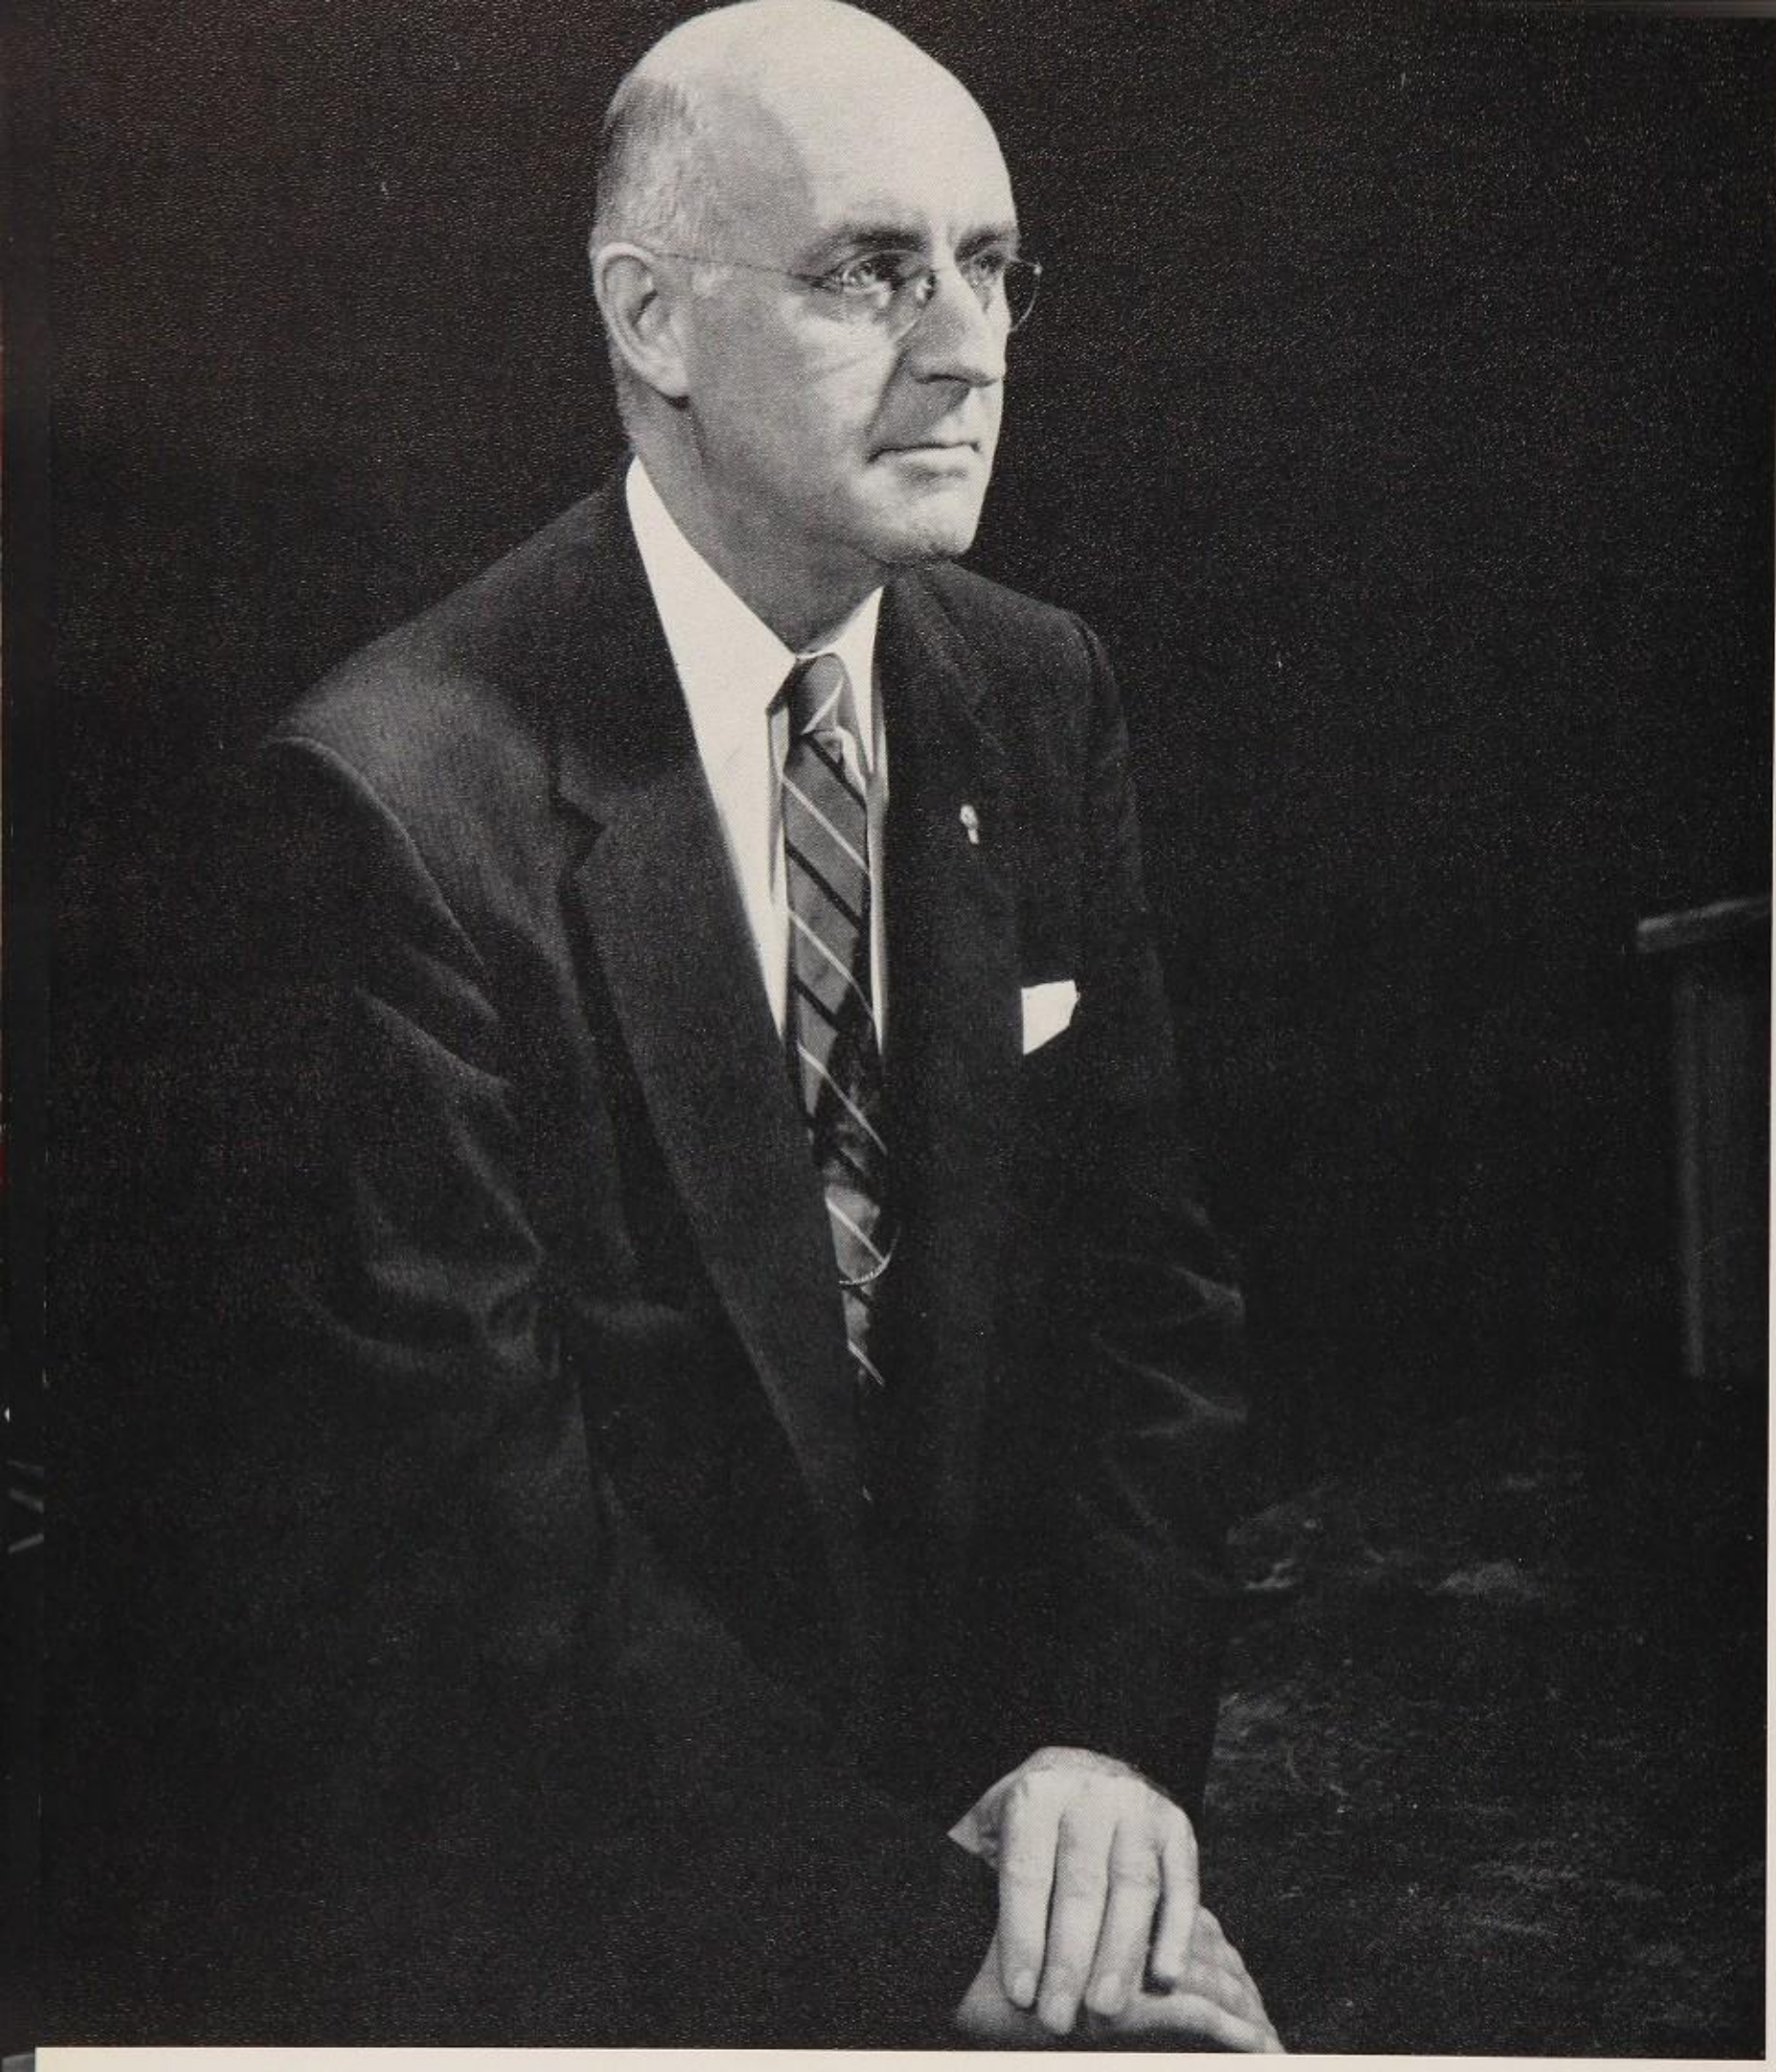
A BUILDER BUILDED A TEMPLE

He wrought it with grace and skill;
Pillars and groins and arches—
All fashioned to work his will,
And men said as they saw its beauty,
"It shall never know decay;
Great is thy skill, O Builder.
Thy fame shall endure for aye."

A TEACHER BUILDED A TEMPLE

With loving and infinite care,
Planning each arch with patience,
Laying each stone with prayer.
None praised the unceasing efforts,
None knew of the wondrous plan
For the temple the teacher builded,
Was unseen by the eye of man.

Gone is the builder's temple
Crumbled into the dust;
Low lies each stately pillar
Food for consuming rust.
But the temple the teacher builded
Will last while the ages roll,
For the beautiful, unseen temple
Was a child's immortal soul.



DR. R. W. CADWALLADER, our principal, is naturally the first person we think of when our thoughts turn to Leadership. He is a wise and considerate man who gives each of us encouragement to be our best, whether as leaders or followers.

"What is my philosophy? To be my philosophy it must be a philosophy peculiar to me. Who am I? I seem to be a lot of different selves. I am one self socially, a little different self in the office and still another self in a boat, fishing. I'm far from satisfied with any of these selves. If I could be just one and only one self, then I could design a philosophy for that self. But haven't I found my philosophy? I should be myself, one-self that satisfies me under all circumstances. I should work toward that end knowing that perfection is beyond human reach but recognizing that with Divine assistance fewer and better selves can be me."

Always on the go, Mr. Havlovic rarely finds time to relax at his desk.

WE BELIEVE IN THE WISDOM OF OUR LEADERS

Equipped to handle every detail of administrative functions are our principal, Mr. Cadwallader, and two assistant principals, Mr. Havlovic and Mr. Shauck. Few persons realize the countless duties awaiting these three at the start of each school day. Mr. Cadwallader finds himself continually besieged by students, teachers, and parents seeking his wise advice and willing assistance in matters ranging from classroom problems to extracurricular activities. Mr. Havlovic, being in charge of student discipline and the school bookshop, finds himself constantly busy. His constructive advice and considerate understanding are appreciated by each student with whom he comes in contact. Our new assistant principal, Mr. Shauck, spends his busy day energetically keeping pace with the problems of junior high students. Western Hills is fortunate to be supported by the wise and understanding leadership of these men.

Mr. Shauck, our new assistant principal, is friendly, firm, and efficient.

Mrs. Heninger helps Janet Buck, Art Dornbusch, and Linda Schmid with their questions about college.

OUR UNDERSTANDING COUNSELORS SOLVE MANY COMPLEX PROBLEMS

In addition to helping each student plan his high school program, West Hi's counselors find time to listen to the problems of troubled students. Whether the problem is academic or personal, Mrs. Heninger, Mr. Lowe, and Miss Hanauer are always ready to solve it with their wise advice and sympathetic understanding.

Marcia Theilman asks Mr. Lowe's advice on her program.

Miss Hanauer, seventh, eighth, and ninth grade counselor, checks students' records with her secretary, Marian Rothert. Miss Hanauer's office, now located on the third floor, is always bustling with energetic junior high students.

WEST HI SECRETARIES COMBINE EFFICIENCY WITH FRIENDLINESS

It's always time for a laugh when Frances Conner, Betty Keller, and Mildred Husemann discover something amusing while at work. Even statistics can be fun for these hard-working gals.

Janet Schaefer spends her day as secretary to counselors, Mrs. Heninger and Mr. Lowe. Busy in the constantly bustling counselors' office are Judy Neiheisel, Don Baldwin, and Betty Crowe.

STUDENT COUNCIL COMPLETES A YEAR OF WORTHWHILE ACHIEVEMENT

J. Schmidt, Vice-President; Miss Burk, Advisor; Esther Casuto, Treasurer; Doreen Spackman, Secretary; and Jim Stergiopoulos, President.

Under the capable leadership of Jim Stergiopoulos, President; Jim Schmidt, Vice-President; Doreen Spackman, Secretary; and Esther Casuto, Treasurer; Student Council completed a very busy and worthwhile year of activities. It succeeded in furthering its purposes of stimulating school spirit, providing a medium for the expression of student opinion, discussing problems vital to the whole student body, and promoting responsible student leadership.

The Junior and Senior divisions, the seven standing committees and homeroom representatives, working in close harmony with the executive officers, added materially in achieving the outstanding performance of this organization. Many projects were sponsored for the beautification of the school, including the traditional Christmas tree which cheerfully brightened the front hall. Certainly everyone will remember the gala Victory Dance and junior high students will look back with fond memories on the Sweetheart Dance. Also originated and sponsored by Student Council were the canteens following home basketball games, which contributed greatly to the stimulation of school spirit and friendly relations between the students.

The student body extends its thanks and appreciation to the officers and members of Student Council for their readiness to assume capable and efficient responsibility for the welfare and democratic progress of their school.

Student Council divisional officers: Joyce Beard, Bob Elliott, Jim Schaal, Mike Lemert, Bud Meyer, Charles Schott, Karen Lundin, and Eleanor Sattler.

One of the big affairs of Dads' Club is the annual Dads-Daughters Night. This year GAA entertained the dads with a modern dance exhibition. Dads' Club officers, seen here being welcomed by Jean Tuerck, Arlene Kelsh, and Gayle Thomas, are Mr. Joe Tuertscher, Mr. Harold Brunswick, Mr. Ray Hendrixson, Mr. Lee Lutz, and Mr. John Egers.

PARENTS OF WEST HI STUDENTS SHOW AN INTEREST IN SCHOOL ACTIVITIES

Western Hills is proud to have two organizations run completely by the parents: the Parents' Association and Dads' Club. Each year these groups endeavor to link the activities of students, teachers, and parents. This year every meeting of the Parents' Association was opened by a senior, chosen from the public speaking class, who gave his "Words of Wisdom." Usually the agenda for the program contained a performance by a school group, such as the choir, the gym department, or G.A A. Both groups conducted their money-making projects with the benefit of the school in mind. The Parents' Association sponsored a dinner to honor the teachers at their Christmas meeting, and the Dads' Club held a Hockey Night at Cincinnati Gardens in February. A talk entitled "God Grant Us a Sense of Humor" by Dr. William C. Donald, Milwaukee psychologist, was acclaimed as one of the most outstanding P.A. meetings of the year.

Above: Enjoying the opportunity for a delightful meal and a friendly chat at the Teachers' Recognition Dinner are Mr. Nocka, Mr. Chesley, Mrs. Anson, Mr. Anson, and Mrs. Nocka.

Right: Mr. Hughes and Mrs. Bonfield, officers of the Parents' Association, explain the principles of their organization to two of our new faculty members, Mr. Pauszek and Miss Marcus.

The annual editorial board, Cherry Steioff, Dick Simmonds, Joyce Lugannani, and Esther Casuto, and advisor, Miss Weber, find something amusing in the layout designed by Sally Heidrich, Bud Lunsford, Carol Staft, and Heidi Hutzelmeyer.

THE ANNUAL STAFF TRIES TO INTERPRET STUDENT BELIEFS

The business staff, Fred Hoefle, Esther Casuto, manager; Betty Crowe, Wilma Erhardt, and Mr. Lowe, advisor; admire their new adding machine.

The first steps in producing the '56 annual were taken a year ago in May. At that time a staff of thirty students was selected. By the middle of June, when the rest of the student body were eagerly awaiting their '55 annuals, the staff had already decided on a theme for the '56 book.

Choosing a theme is one of the most difficult tasks for a new staff to face. Each member has an opportunity to contribute his ideas, which must be judged on their relation to the school, their adaptability to logical organization, and their chances for attractive development. After considering all these things, the staff unanimously chose "This We Believe." Months of hard work followed their decision. Hectic conferences with printer, engraver, and photographer, along with measuring pictures, composing copy, planning layouts and keeping up with homework made the staff members' lives anything but leisurely. Nevertheless, the pride and satisfaction of achievement made all the sacrifices worth while.

Left: Pictures to measure! Copy to write! Layouts to plan! Rushing to meet an engraver's deadline are Nancy Walker, Kay Keiser, Judy Kleeman, Dixie Lee, Joyce Wodrich, Dottie Kirchner, and Linda Conaway.

Right: The sports staff seems to be having trouble deciding which action shots to use. Pondering over the pictures are Warren Kirchner, Ned Hauss, Bonnie Craig, and Kathy Eckert.

The abilities required of an Annual Staff member are many and varied. He must be creative, precise, alert, diplomatic, and efficient. He should be accurate in every detail and prompt in carrying out every responsibility. Precision to the sixteenth of an inch is necessary in measuring photographs and copy blocks. There can be no typographical or grammatical errors. Students and teachers must be notified of picture schedule several days in advance. Assigned copy must be written, checked, and turned over to the staff typist promptly. Picture schedules must be planned to be convenient for everyone involved. All individual pictures, approximately 2,800 of them, must be alphabetized and mounted, requiring many hours of patient work.

Above all, the really good staff member must be earnestly concerned with doing his part to produce a yearbook to be proud of. He must work long and hard with no thought of reward of any kind. His only satisfaction is that which he feels when the book is completed successfully.

Taking time out for nourishment while working late at school are staff members Carole Bierbaum, Helen Benjamin, Judy Ebel, Judy Knoepfler, Janet Voll, and Glenda Lugannani.

THE BREEZE STAFF WORKS TO ACHIEVE A SUCCESSFUL YEAR

Write the news in an accurate, ethical and impartial manner.

Hold our student body together and uphold our school's name and scholastic standards.

Bring worthwhile events to the attention of the students and faculty and promote just causes.

With their platform as a goal, this year's "Breeze" Staff began work last fall. Using the invaluable assistance of the journalism class and the Western Hills Publishing Company, they achieved an admirable success. Each issue of the "Breeze" was a result of hours of concentrated effort on the part of all concerned. Every individual had to consider his own particular job as being vital to the paper's success. Carelessness on the part of one member could have been responsible for a complete issue being ruined. Co-editors Ann Stubbs and Karen Springmyer, and advisor, Miss Walters, were constantly on hand to see that the production ran smoothly. Because of the staff's love of writing, loyalty to the school, and desire for improvement, it was able to produce a year of delightful "Breeze" issues.

ALERT REPORTERS THOROUGHLY COVER SCHOOL EVENTS

Taking time out to enjoy reading the results of their efforts are Miss Walters, Advisor; and Ann Stubbs and Karen Springmyer, Co-Editors.

Deadline today! Staff members temporarily leave their particular duties to rush the vital copy into production. Busy at this job are P. Hohnroth, Business Manager; B. Gerhardt, Art Editor; M. Allen, Exchange Editor; J. Cutler, Photographer; and S. Heidrich, Art Editor.

Miss Greensmith guides her class in English III to an understanding of the values of literature.

". . . THE TEMPLE THE TEACHER BUILDED WILL LAST WHILE THE AGES ROLL . . ."

Miss Peterson gives out report cards in her homeroom.

"For the temple the teacher builded was a child's immortal soul." We believe that these inspiring words apply to our teachers at Western Hills, though we may sometimes lose sight of that fact in the seething metropolis that is our school. Amid the hustle of performing homeroom duties, conducting class, and marking papers, teachers themselves often have to recapture the principal ideals of their profession.

Few persons, however, show the devotion to their profession that teachers do. Our teachers come early and stay late without thought of overtime pay. They constantly confer with pupils before and after school, giving help and encouragement. They sponsor clubs and chaperone dances. They attend committee meetings, remake curriculum bulletins, and continually read to keep abreast of education progress. They are firm, yet warm, sincere, and understanding. They are fine leaders for us to follow, and we wish to thank them for their devoted guidance.

Mr. Yung and Miss Slutz record and compare grades on the six-year grade cards in the main office.

Depositing scores of grade sheets in the office mailboxes is just one of a teacher's time-consuming duties. Seen at this task are Mr. Love, Miss Schilling, Mr. Hopping, and Miss Shoemaker.

New faculty members, Mr. Von Walden, Mrs. Nester, Miss Geiger, and Mr. Curry take advantage of a free period to mark examination papers and transfer the grades to office files.

Many of West Hi's teachers take advantage of the plentiful resources available in our attractive library. Our librarians, Miss Logue and Miss Glass, help faculty members select desirable material for both classroom use and for personal enjoyment. English teachers such as Mrs. Frehse and Miss Klaserner constantly read in an effort to be informed on the latest publications in every field of interest, from baseball to mysteries.

The teacher of today seeks to broaden her scope by learning of the peop'e and cultures of foreign lands. Mrs. Postle shows Miss Bolan and Miss Kolks the beautiful pieces of jewelry and other souvenirs which she brought back from a recent trip to Europe.

Mr. Lust, Miss Bayha, Mr. Kuechenmiester, and Miss Yalen meet to talk shop. They compare the quality and prices of equipment needed for their classes in order to choose the most durable machines available. Students who have studied under the guidance of these business teachers can secure positions in the business world upon graduation or find that their training is helpful in other fields of work.

Miss Dufficy and Mr. Thomas find themselves right in the middle of a typical second floor traffic jam. They are just two of the teachers who can be seen curbing the vigorous energy which bombards the halls between bells and after school.

The extremely crowded conditions existing at Western Hills this year proved a great inconvenience to faculty and students alike. Many teachers found it necessary to seek suitable working space in various rooms. Mr. Bathiany, Mr. Minesinger, and Miss Steinmetz find the teachers' lunchroom a convenient place in which to discuss plans for a future assembly program.

Despite the countless after-school hours spent in preparing lessons, grading papers, and attending meetings, our faculty still finds time to pursue worthwhile pastimes and hobbies. The winter months find some of our teachers busily engaged in indoor activities. Then, if they're lucky enough to be free from work or study, the long-awaited summer brings coveted weeks of relaxation or travel.

Mr. Fouch seems to be swapping fish stories with Mr. Kuhn, Mr. Gausman, and Mr. Huth. His fellow fishermen apparently find the size of his catch very amusing. Mr. Kuhn's charming collection of preserved fish heads adds vividness to the tall tales.

Right: Caught during a rare moment of relaxation in the faculty lounge are Mrs. Walter, Mr. Hess, Miss Constant, and Mr. Heubach.

Below: Mr. Lilly, Miss Davis, Mr. Rose, and Miss Hoover, exchange opinions on the qualities of their students' projects. Original creativeness is encouraged in art classes conducted by these instructors.

As each student passes through the painful growing stages from rookie to senior, he eventually begins to see the human side of his teachers. He begins to understand and appreciate the true value of their genuine concern for each individual. Realizing that his teacher's family, home life, ambitions, and desires are much akin to his own, the student is more willing to place his trust and confidence in the capable hands of a person who he knows is genuinely interested in his welfare.

It looks as though Mr. Welborn is telling a tall tale to gullible male members of the faculty, Mr. Martin, Mr. O'Toole, Mr. Miller, Mr. Kinnaird, Mr. McClure, and Mr. Wollenhaupt. It must have been a good story judging from their amused expressions.

Chubby charmers, David and Carol Wuerdeman, are the cause of "Oh's" and "Ah's" heard from the admiring circle of students not included in the picture. Admiring the healthy, rosy-cheeked twins are Mrs. Lewis and the proud papa, Mr. Wuerdeman.

"Mmmm, delicious!" are the comments of Mrs. Cornwall and Miss Smith as they sample a piece of Karen Miester's delectable coffee cake. Believing that experience is the best teacher, Karen put her classroom lessons to a practical application, to the delight of her teacher.

This distinguished and enthusiastic-looking group comprises an exclusive club known as "The Grandfathers of West Hi." Bursting with pride as they show off snapshots of their grandchildren are Mr. Crandall, Mr. Dunkel, Mr. McCartney, Mr. Cadwallader, Mr. Morgan, and Mr. Schick. Other proud members of the Grandfathers Club not appearing in the picture are Mr. Havlovic and Mr. Rimanoczy.

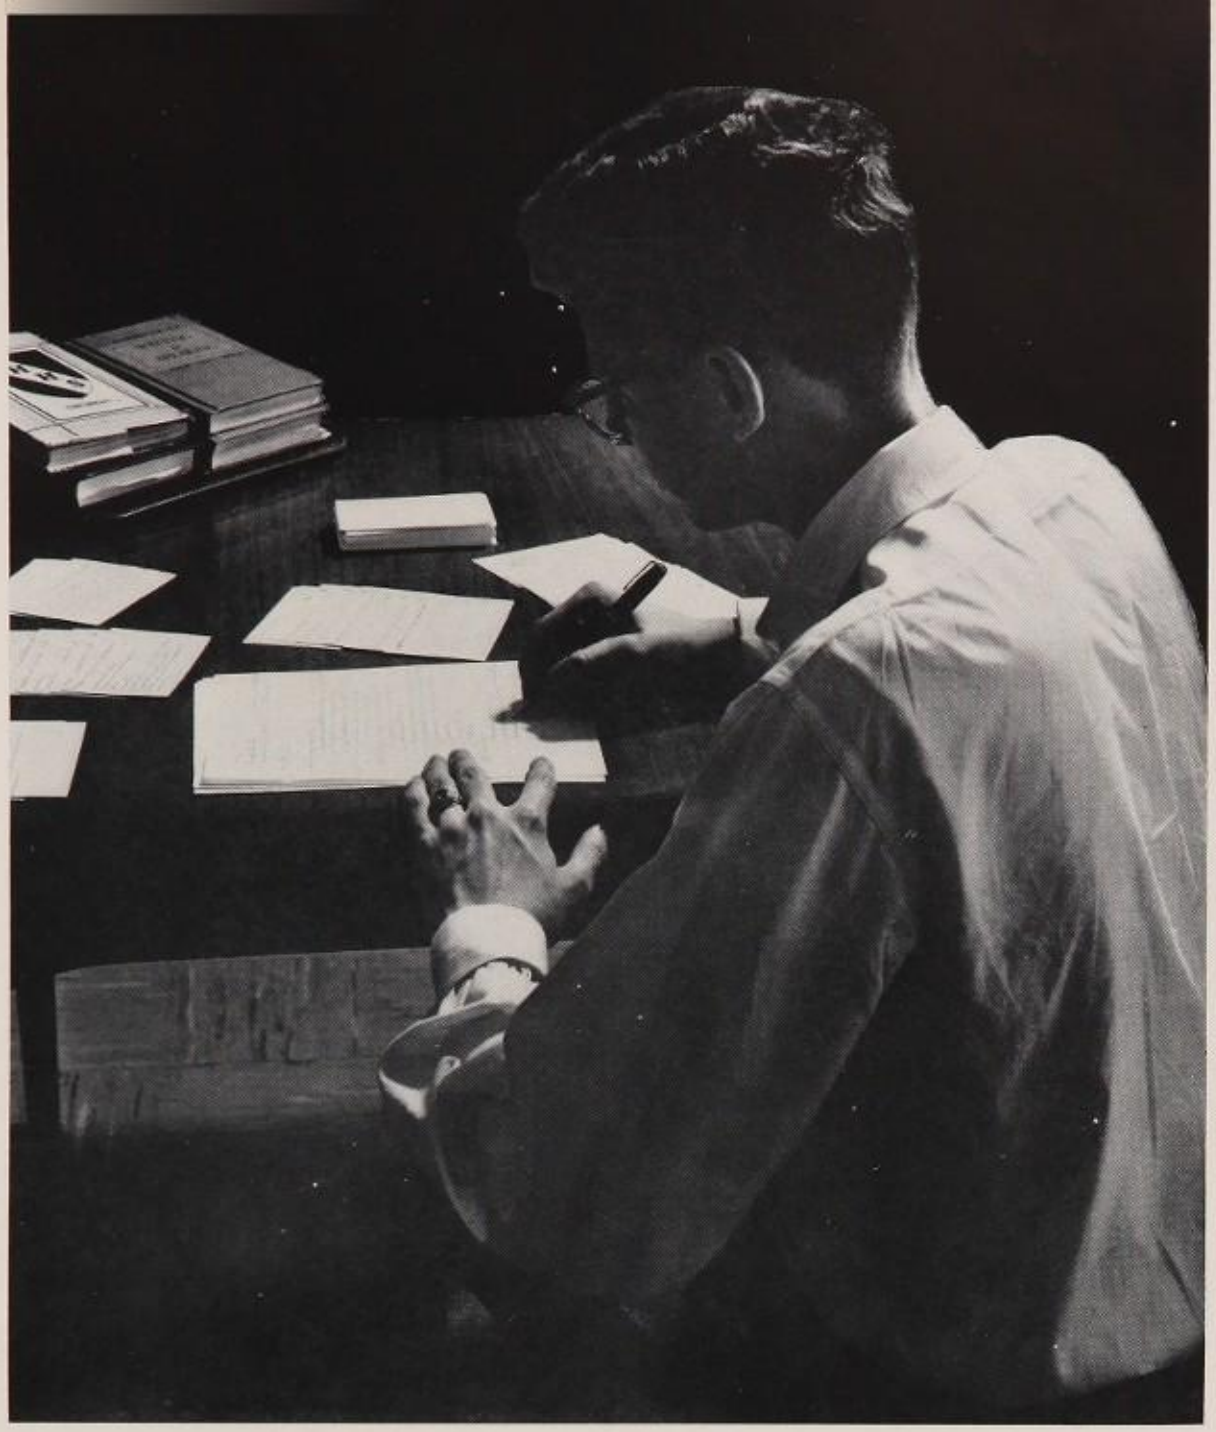
THE BURBANK ROOM

So, then, to every man his chance—to every man, regardless of his birth, his shining, golden opportunity—to every man the right to live, to work, to be himself, and to become whatever thing his manhood and his vision can combine to make him— . . .

—THOMAS WOLFE

DOREEN SPACKMAN, an active officer and member of several organizations at Western Hills, has proved that she has ability in many fields. Her popularity reflects the intelligence, poise, and sparkling personality which assure her a successful future.

" 'Life is a mirror: if you frown at it, it frowns back; if you smile, it returns the greeting.' These words of Thackeray contain my philosophy—cheerfulness. I have lots to be happy about, and I thank God for all my blessings—a home, a church, a school, and friends. On days when things aren't going so well, however, even a make-believe smile works wonders to make life pleasant. These are the times I'm most grateful for my friends at Western Hills, and for their cheerfulness. To sum up my philosophy: I have lived, I have learned, and I have loved; and I shall continue to do the same—if I can continue to be cheerful."



Working hard, John? John Henthorn is working on an outline for his Senior Research Paper. Making an outline, obtaining information, and putting it together to make an effective research paper he'p John acquire the ability to think clearly.

WE BELIEVE THAT EVERY BOY AND GIRL SHOULD ACQUIRE THE ABILITY TO THINK CLEARLY

Do you see a mistake? Someone does, Eddie Annavedder has just finished his plane geometry problem while Helen Vaias is still putting hers on the board. In plane geometry students learn how to think clearly by working problems, finding mistakes and correcting them.

"Journalism surely takes a lot of time for study and research," says Gloria Bruestle as she tries to gain some extra knowledge in after school hours.

JOURNALISM, MATH, PHYSICS, DRIVERS' EDUCATION AND OTHER

It's hard to tell which of the two is having more fun. Carol Staft or her sister, Karen. While Karen is having a good time with her tinker toys, Carol uses them trying to visualize a problem in solid geometry.

Western Hills students acquire the ability to think clearly through many subjects such as English, geometry, journalism, physics, and health. The boy who is hard at work knows that he must think clearly if he is to write a good research paper. He has learned to work efficiently by searching for material, taking accurate notes, outlining and organizing his thoughts, writing the first draft, and then revising the final copy. Much clear, logical thinking is also needed to complete a geometric proof or to work a problem in solid or plane geometry. Diagrams, models, and other visual aids help the student get a good understanding of the problem and aid his thinking, but he must also be able to analyze the problem and work it. This is a product of clear thinking. In journalism the student learns that he must have ideas clearly in mind before he begins to write. Then, after all his ideas and material have been accumulated, he will have to think clearly to write his article. The student learns the ability to think clearly in physics through experimentation and calculation. First he performs his experiment and then on the basis of what he has learned, he is able to perform the necessary computations. In Drivers' Education, a part of our health course, students, while learning the rules of the road, also learn how to think clearly behind the wheel of an automobile. All these subjects help Western Hills students to obtain a very necessary ability—the ability to think clearly.

One of the many physics experiments, the voltmeter-ammeter experiment, is observed by Warren Kirchner and Nancy Wohlwender in the laboratory.

SUBJECTS DEVELOP CLEAR THINKING

In Drivers' Education, John Blaga is tested for his reaction time while Dan Dietrich, Mr. McCartney, Mike Lemert, Bob Francis, John Burke, Paul Nohr, Jerry Kuhn, and Al Bocklet look on to see how well he will do.

WE BELIEVE PUPILS SHOULD GAIN THE ABILITY TO UNDERSTAND THE WORLD AND ITS PEOPLE

Students at Western Hills acquire the ability to understand the world and its peoples in many ways. To know the people of other countries they study foreign languages. To understand the physical world they study geography, biology, physics, and chemistry. To understand our heritage and our government they study history, economics, and American problems.

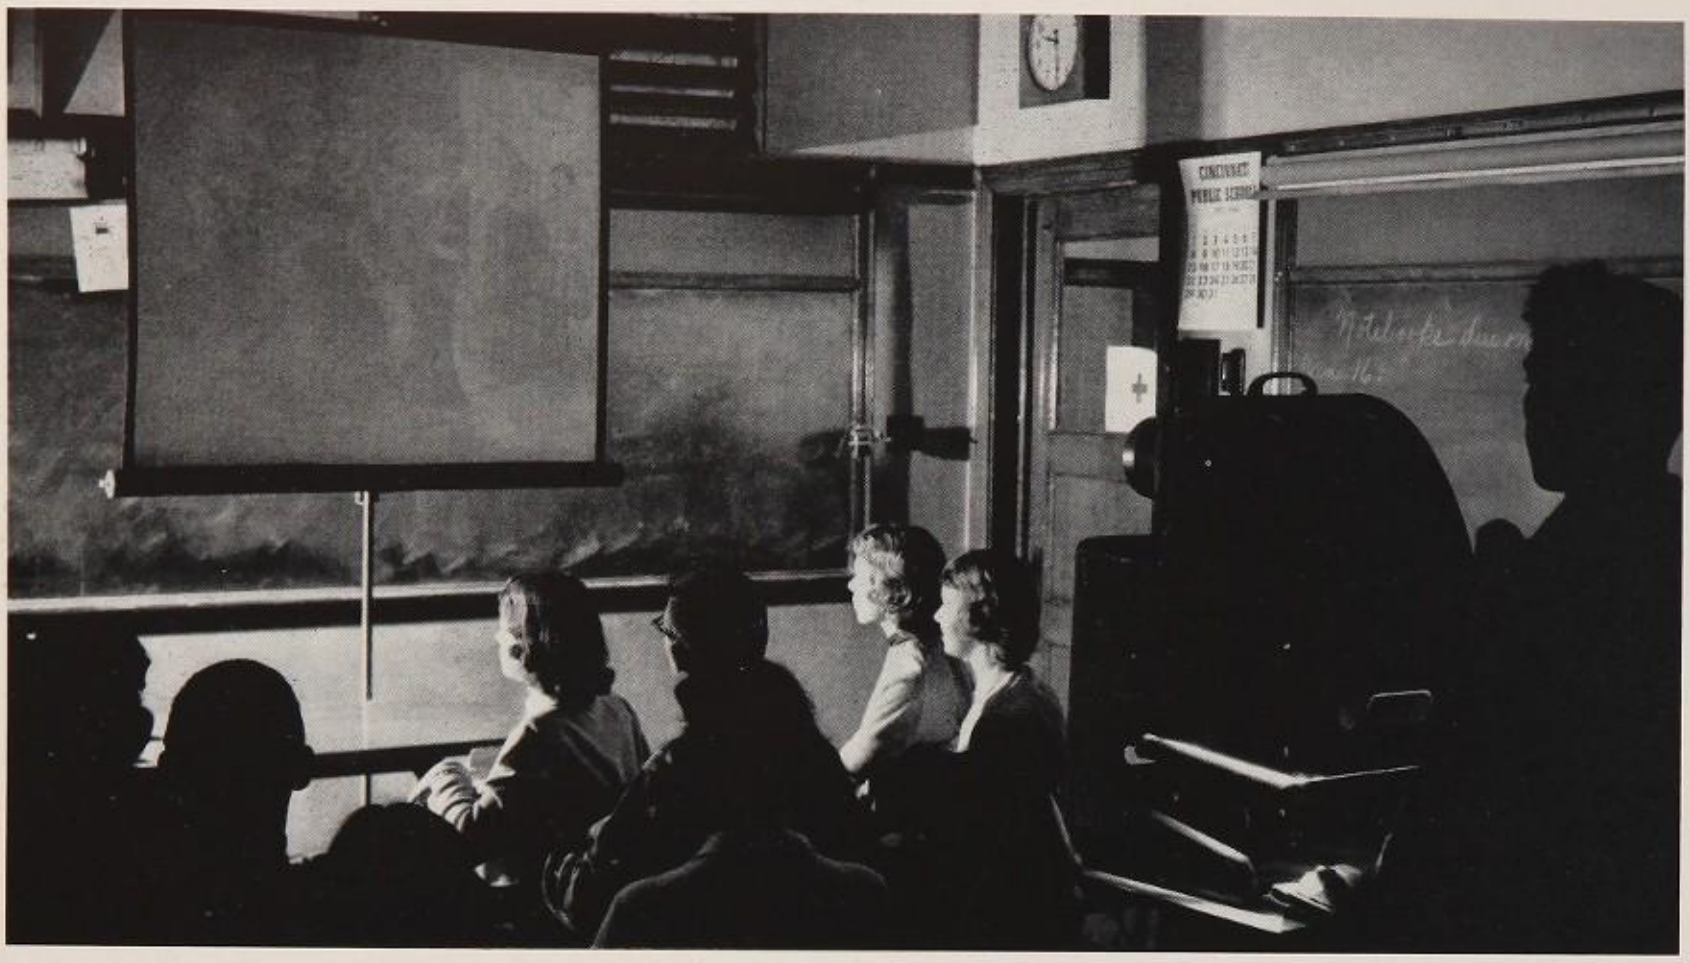
To broaden world understanding our school, this year, brought a German student to our community. Heidi Hutzelmeyer from St. Anna Public High School, our sister school in Munich, moved in with the Heidrich family and immediately became a typical Western Hills student, studying American subjects, participating in American activities, and enjoying an American social and family life. Assisted by her school in Germany, which sent poems, pictures, and tape recordings made by the German students, Heidi brought us an understanding of European traditions and methods of thinking. We, in return, sent a recording telling of our school activities but, most of all, we are returning Heidi with a thoroughly American flavor. We have enjoyed having her with us and are sorry to see her depart. With her effervescent personality, Heidi has made many friends here. We hope that she returns to Germany with happy memories of our school and the American way of life.

A French restaurant scene is portrayed by members of the French classes under the direction of Miss Tebbenhoff. Florence Wondrack appears as a dancer, and Mat Yosafat, as a chef. Other members of the class are Verilyn Swedersky, Gwen Clifton, Barbara Bridges, Andre Ballestra, Carol Smith, Arthur Dornbusch, Virginia Koerber, Patricia Wertz, James McRoberts, and Ellyn Rutenschroer.

Lee Ruck, Ann Kerl, Carolyn Mathias, Heather Buck, Jack Vollmer, and Judy Myers, members of the Spanish Club, seem to be enjoying themselves while they pretend to take a siesta in sunny Mexico.

FRENCH, SPANISH, AND GERMAN BROADEN OUR UNDERSTANDING

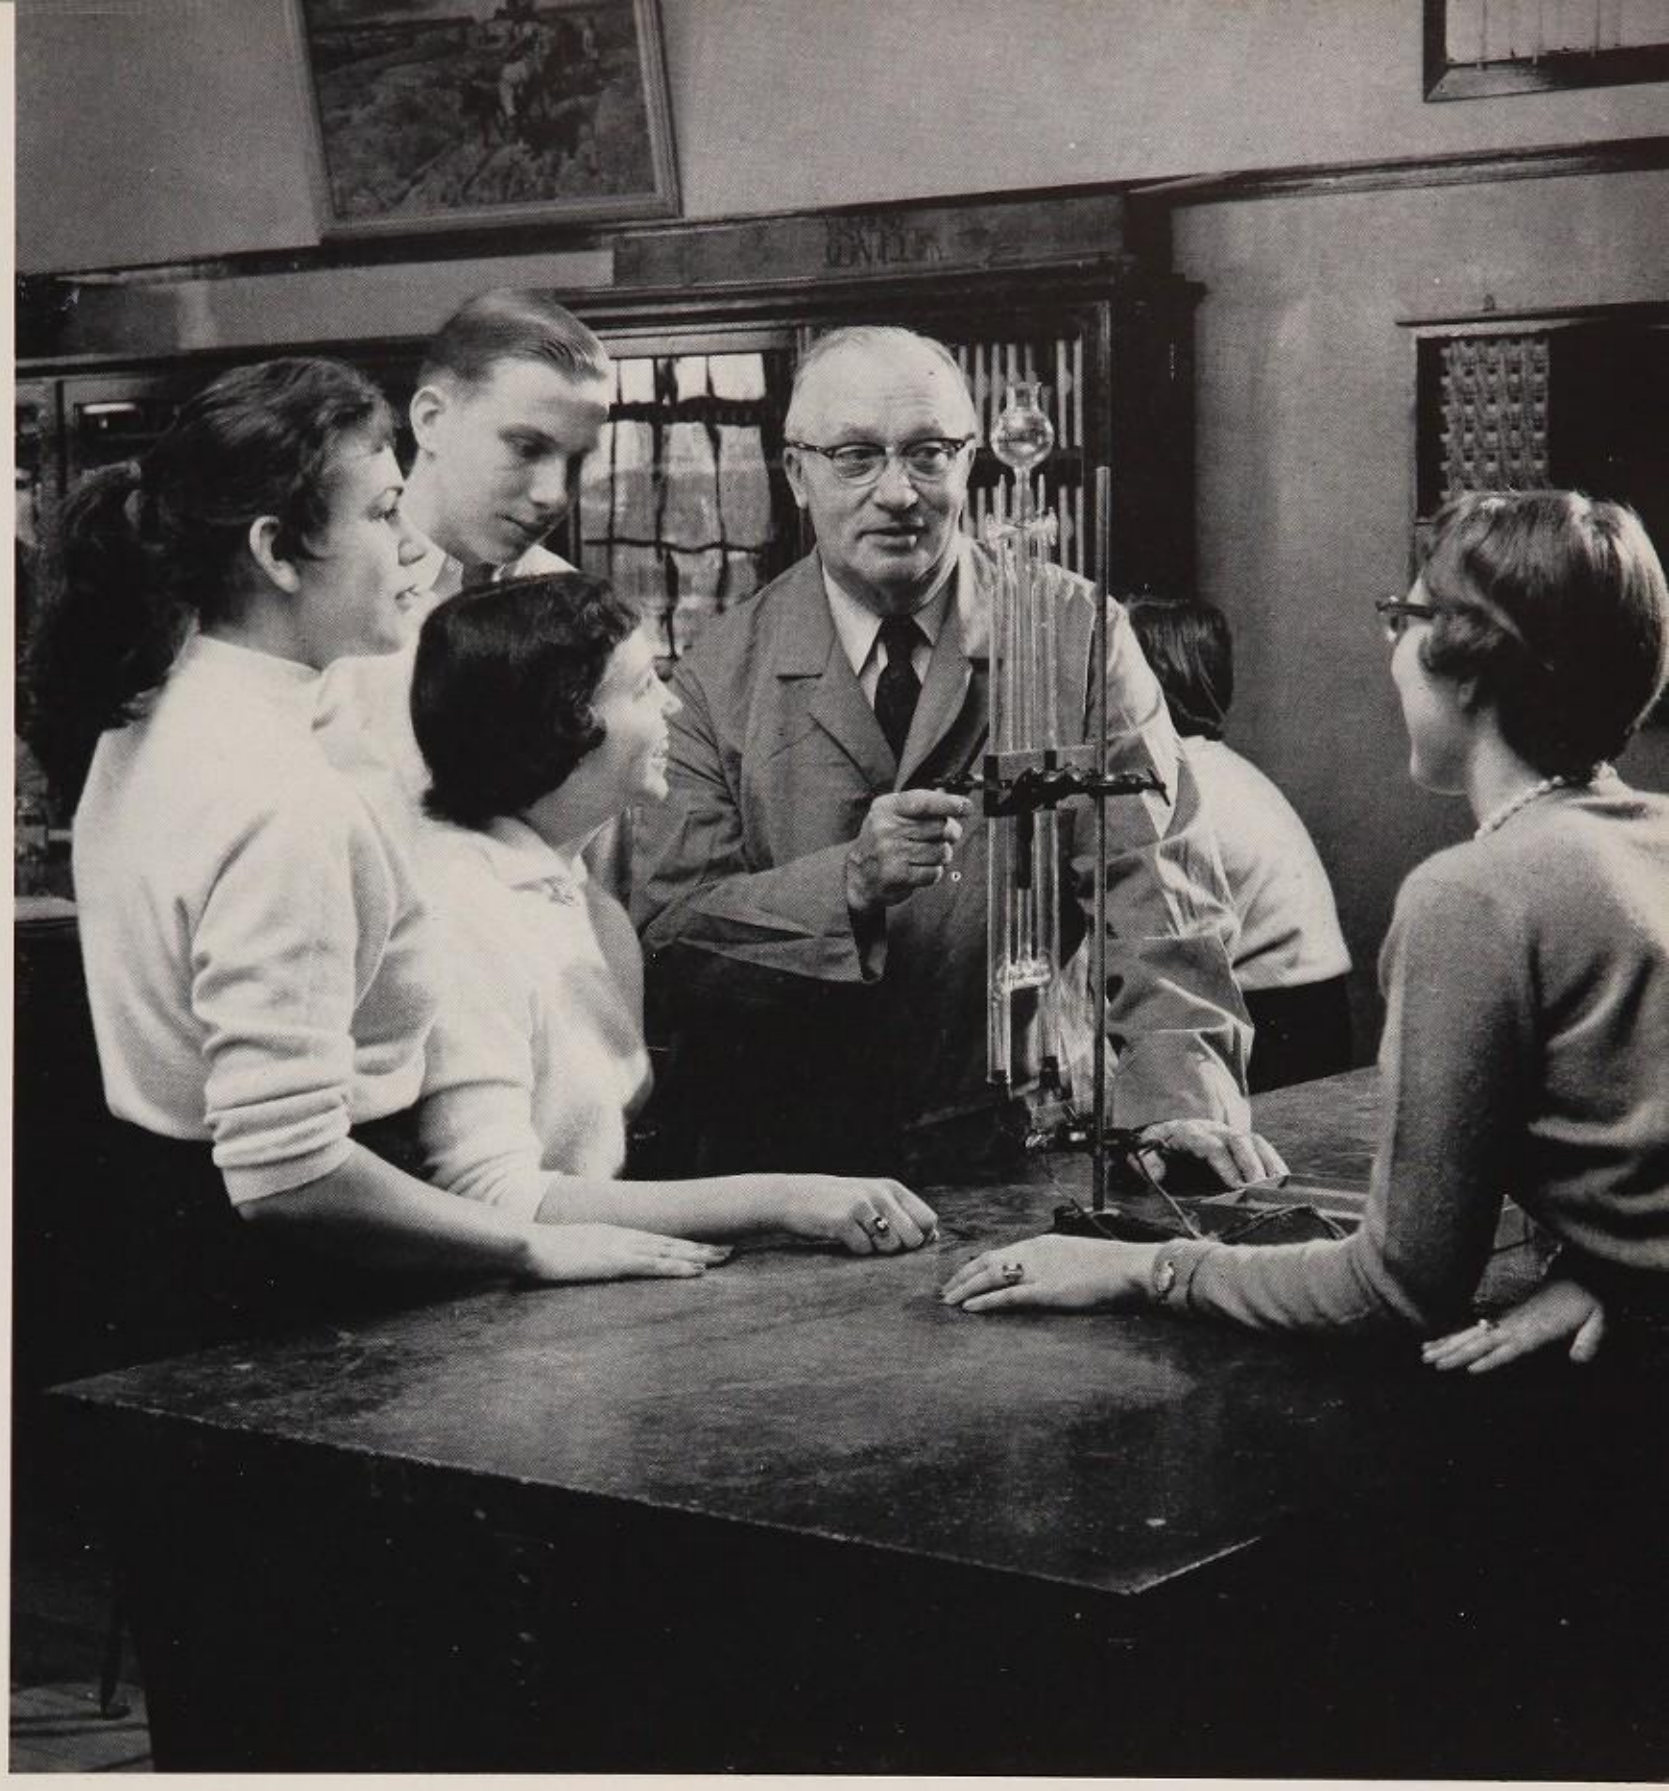
Heidi Hutzelmeyer, an exchange student from Germany, attending Western Hills for a year, is showing Mr. Shackelford's second year German class some of the work from her school in Germany.



By the use of an opaque projector, Mrs. Morris is able to add to her course extra zest. Her World History class gets to see interesting illustrations of history's greatest happenings.

Social Studies gives Western Hills students a knowledge of the world and an understanding of the peoples of the earth so that they may be better world citizens. World History teaches students the beginnings of democracy and culture. It helps them to see how society has progressed and how it has failed. American History and Government teaches students about our own democracy and culture and the way each was formed. American Problems in Democracy teaches the practical phases of economic, social, and political problems. By leading and participating in discussions, students become acquainted with problems which they will soon face. With these subjects in mind they can go into the world as intelligent citizens with understanding minds.

Mr. Fouch gives his students practical preparation for voting in Cincinnati's Proportional Representation system by a mock election. Diane Schaefer and Pat Sullivan are tallying the votes that Jackie Hardiman and Shirley Zimmerman are counting while Art Mahaffey and David Theilman check to see that no mistakes are made..



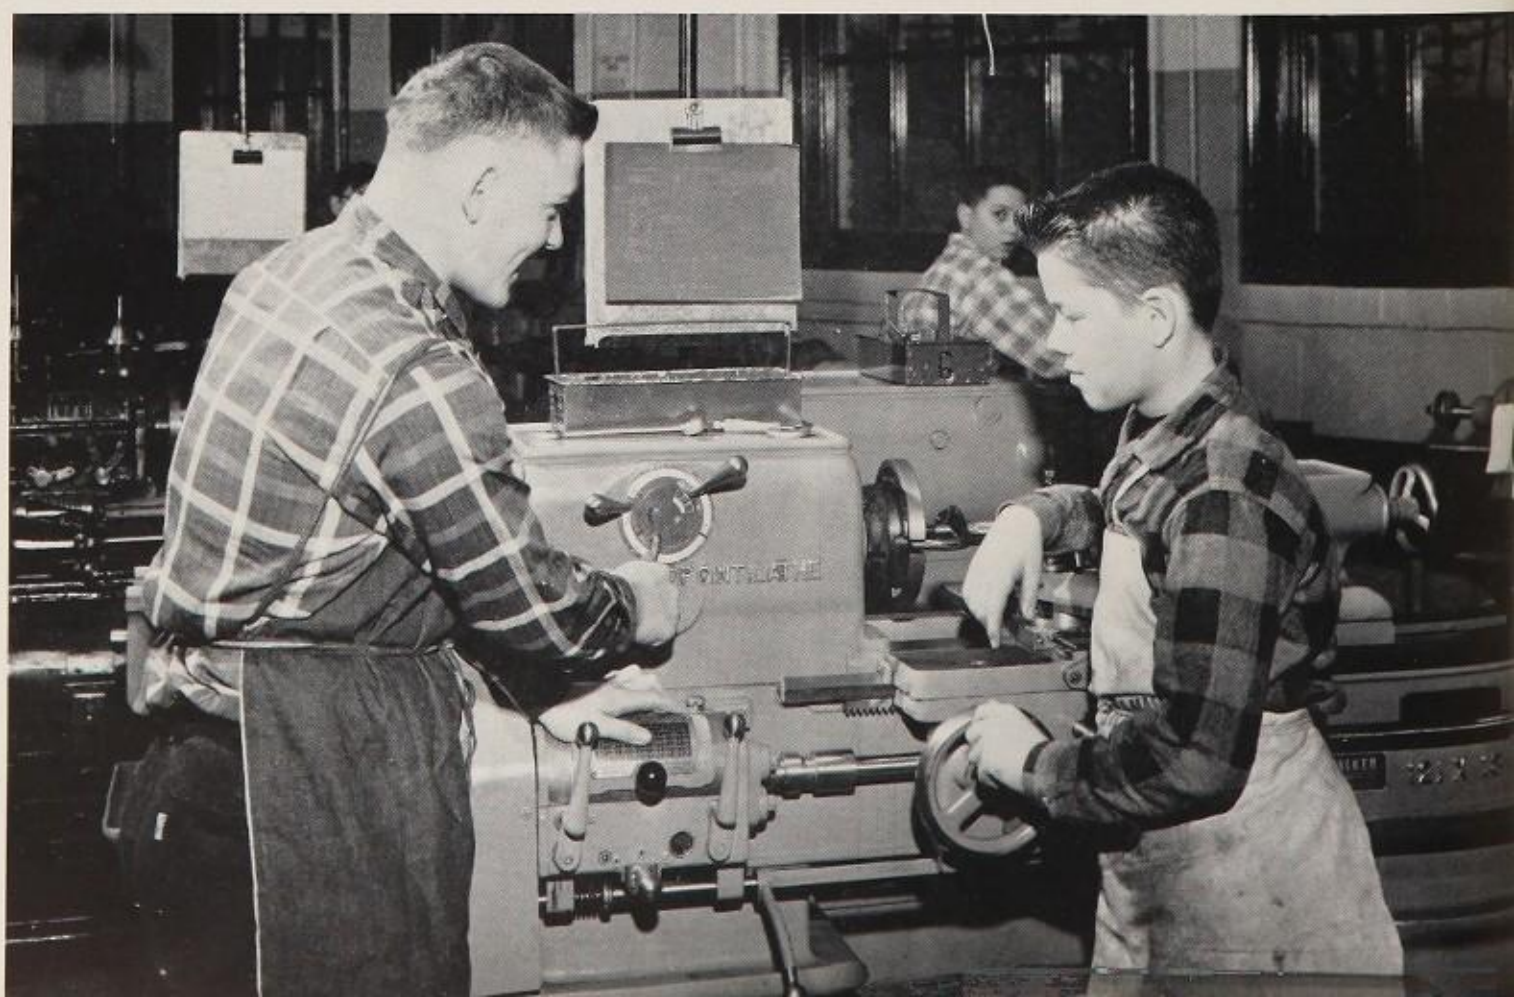
An electrolysis experiment is completed by Mr. Dunkel while Wanda Lackes, Carol Kraus, Bob Stevens, and Joyce Wodrich watch to see the results.

SCIENCE HELPS STUDENTS UNDERSTAND THE PHYSICAL WORLD

From the studies of general science, zoology, and chemistry, Western Hills students gain an understanding of the earth, its plants, and animals. General science is a menu of all sciences. In the general science course the students are intrigued by the movements of the solar system, simple chemical reactions, and photosynthesis. If, after this sampling of the sciences, they choose zoology, they study animals, their lives and their habitats. If students choose chemistry, they discover for themselves the composition and uses of many commercial household products. At the same time they learn scientific thinking. No matter which science is studied, Western Hills students are enabled to see the vastness of modern science and to understand the earth's complexities.

"The universe is made up of many bodies," says Mr. DePollo to his class as they learn about the solar system.

SOCIAL STUDIES, ZOOLOGY, AND SHOPS GIVE US VALUED



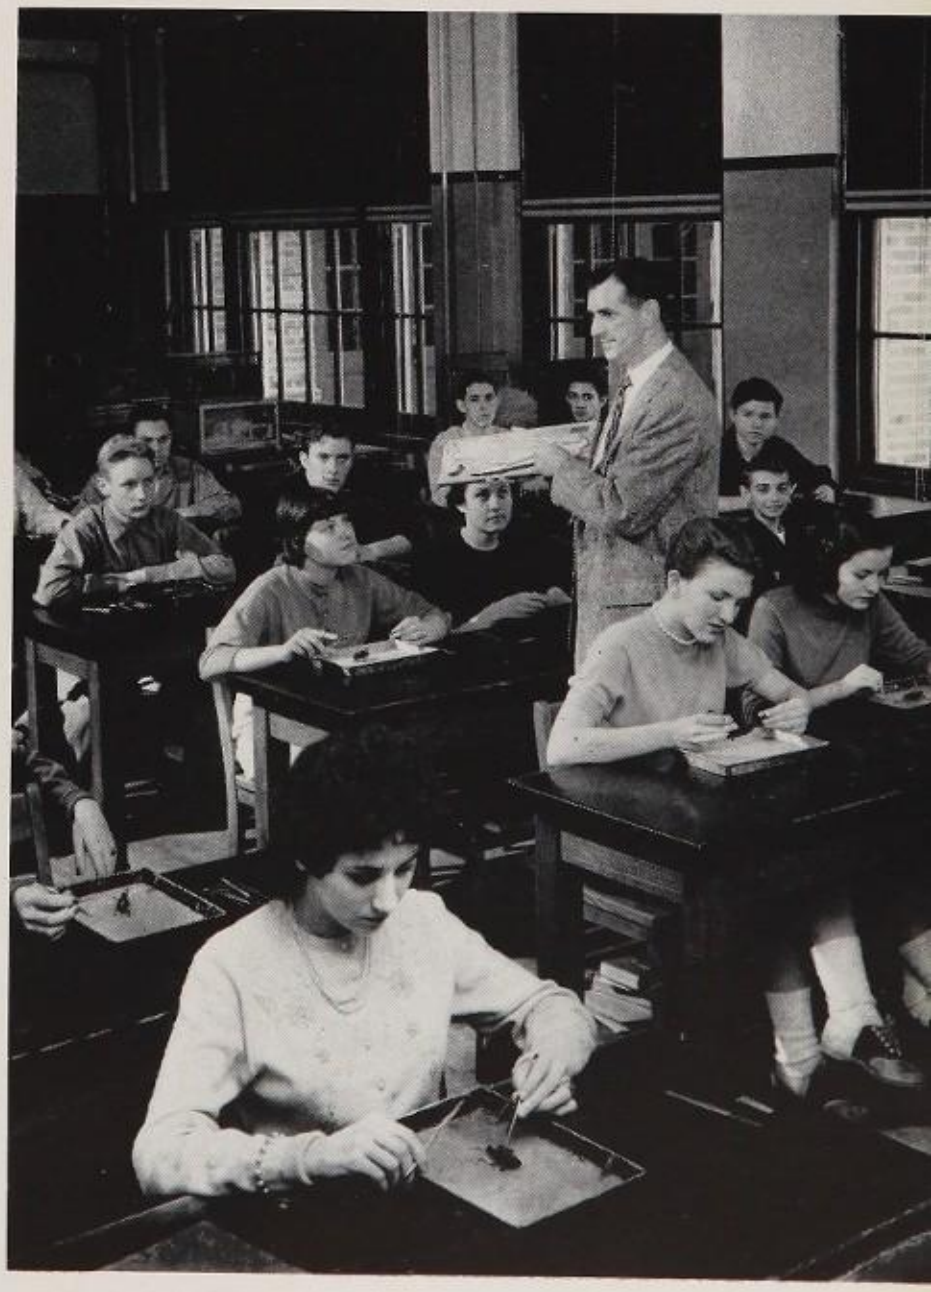
One must understand how the huge machines which we have in our metal shop work before he can operate them efficiently. Richa-d Evans is showing Bernie Schroeder how to use a new la'he in the metal shop while David Curdiff looks on.

In geography classes, maps and globes are used extensively. Here Junior Morgeson points out a geographic location while Elaine Veser, Pascal Trobauis, and Donna Correll make sure that he is correct.

Mr. Fread explains the internal and external parts of a grasshopper while his class gingerly begins dissecting the preserved insects.

EXPERIENCE AND KNOWLEDGE

Such diverse fields of study as science, social studies, languages, and the industrial arts, are of priceless value to the student who is sincere in his desire to acquire a mature understanding of the world about him and of people of all races and religions. The ability to understand and sympathize with his fellowman is the most worthwhile lesson a Western Hills student can learn, and, unlike the date of a battle or the characteristics of a reptile, it will never be forgotten. These invaluable lessons prepare the student for all the successes and failures he must face and endure throughout his lifetime. If a student is instilled with courage and perseverance in his early years, he will be better equipped to live successfully and securely.



David Reeves finds himself a sensational pantomime hit in one of Miss Steinmetz's speech classes.

WE BELIEVE THAT EVERY STUDENT SHOULD ACQUIRE THE ABILITY TO EXPRESS

In salesmanship class, John Minnich tries to sell his product to Harry Panaro.

The art class seems to enjoy working with oil paint.

On this first spring-like day, Craig Devine expresses his feelings through this remarkable sketch of our school.

HIMSELF

English students seem to be having a rough time with an exam.

Western Hills students have many opportunities to express themselves in their classes and their extracurricular activities. They express themselves emotionally through the media of music, art, and drama. In art and architectural drawing students learn to train their hands to reproduce emotions and construct designs. They learn to use their persuasive powers in salesmanship and adveritising and express themselves on their feet in public speaking. They learn to adopt good sales technique and to convince other people of their beliefs. Students learn to express themselves intellectually and more clearly in all their subjects through use of mature composition. Being able to express themselves successfully in one or more of these ways, students have taken one step toward a bright future.

Sandra Vogt, Phyllis Koenig and Joyce Doctor are looking forward to a slice of the cake that June Gardner is beaming over.

WE BELIEVE EVERY BOY AND GIRL SHOULD BE PREPARED TO FIND HIS PLACE IN THE WORLD

Jean Garrett and Shirley Pape, two of our merchandising students, are learning to serve their customers "with a smile" while they work at McAlpins at the Shopping Center.

One of the main objectives of education is to teach us the ability to find our place in the world. In kindergarten we visited the firehouse, drew pictures of the policeman, and sang songs about the postman; we learned about many different occupations. As our education progressed we continued our study of vocations. High school took us a long way in preparing for our future. Here at Western Hills, we have taken many varied subjects to help us find for what we are best suited. Some of us have taken business subjects to help us find future jobs as secretaries, stenographers, and business executives. Others have majored in home economics to become the housewives, buyers, and interior decorators of tomorrow. The boy who is intrigued by the huge presses and the smell of wet ink in his print shop class will print our books, newspapers, and magazines. Those participating in merchandising class have discovered an interest in the field of buying and selling. Throughout school we have worked and studied and planned for the future. Soon we must go out on our own, but each of us will have fulfilled his purpose in life—each will have found his place in the world.

To sort pied type for Mr. Wollenhaupt isn't exactly what one would term exciting. The sorting of pied type, a necessary evil of the printing industry, is often assigned by the teacher as punishment for a misdemeanor committed during classtime, but more often just as pure work. Sam Gill and Eugene Hanson are shown experiencing the typical emotion—boredom.

Mike Schearer, Donna Gibson, Phyllis Hensley, and Mary Pegg are trying out the IBM Machines aboard the Encyclopedia Britannica's Educational train.

Carolyn York and Bonnie Bizzarri also seem to be enjoying themselves on the train making skirts with the modern sewing machines.

"Watch out, Bob Hearne! Use the guard." This is a typical admonition given by Mr. Gausman to seventh graders using the larger equipment in the woodshop. Under Mr. Gausman's direction, Jerry Storm, Douglas Thuering, William Roberts, Val Nicholas, and Paul Assum have made attractive wooden utensils, shoe racks, monogrammed tie racks, fish-shaped cutting boards, and bird houses.

SHOPS, CONFERENCES,

The Kuder Test, which all eleventh graders take, groups them into nine interest fields for the Career Conferences which were conducted this year. Here we see George Koch, Ellis Lutz, Leslye Osborne, Jo Ann Kerber, and Janet Mathews attending the conference for those with artistic interest. Miss Margaret Chesser from Shillito's is telling them about careers in art.

Totin' sap is surely more fun than classrooms for Mr. Thomas' biology class which undertook the project of making maple syrup. Fred Church, Bill Schenk, and Jackie Herbert carry off sap to "refinery," while Judy Kleeman and Dennis Haley "collect" from a tree tap.

AND PRACTICAL SCIENCE PREPARE STUDENTS FOR THEIR FUTURE

A student is more prepared to find his place in the world after he has learned to think clearly, to understand the people and the world around him, and to express himself. If a person is able to think clearly he can solve his problems effectively and make decisions wisely. With an understanding of the world and its people the student will be able to get along with his fellowman, will know what is happening in the world, and will be able to take advantage of his opportunities. With the ability to express himself, the student is able to make known successfully his opinions and feelings. Through class rooms, academic activities, and everyday experiences, Western Hills students are constantly led toward their goal in life—to find their places in the world.

Talent

We must despise no sort of talents;
they all have their separate uses and duties;
all have the happiness of man for their object;
they all improve, exalt, and gladden life.

—SYDNEY SMITH

Superior talent in the field of art is a most impressive sight. Real talent, even natural ability must be cultivated and MR. RIMANOCZY, through his devotion to music, has developed many talented performers and given our school a higher appreciation of music.

"What do I believe? If I were to attempt to put into words what I think would help boys and girls, it probably would be something like this: Too many of us blindly follow the leader. Even though group conformity is the most natural thing in the world, it does not always lead to the wisest pattern of living. Few people in any age have achieved supremely worthwhile things and yet failed to honor what they know in their own hearts to be right and good. I believe we begin to grow up when we stop letting the group do our thinking for us. As Emerson said, 'Trust thyself'—every heart vibrates to that string."

WE BELIEVE IN DEVELOPING TALENT IN MANY FORMS

CREATIVE TALENT IS EXPRESSED IN SENIOR A CAPELLA CHOIR

To be one of the one hundred and ten members of our Senior Choir would be a great thrill for anyone. To achieve this goal, those interested in singing usually start in the seventh or eighth grade by taking part in Junior Choir, which meets two and a half bells a week. They proceed to Intermediate Choir, and finally try out for Senior Choir. Students who succeed in passing the requirements for Senior A Capella Choir receive one of our cherished maroon choir robes and the privilege of joining the group in all its performances. Few members will forget the excitement and emotion of performing on Thanksgiving for our traditional assemblies, which took hours and hours of practice. Nor will they forget the thrill of caroling in our halls, and joining other schools in singing at Fountain Square at Christmas time. They will long remember the months of hard work, under the patient direction of Mr. Rimanoczy, which went into preparing for the May Festival and Bandwagon.

SINGERS, DANCERS, AND COMEDIANS DISPLAY TALENT IN BANDWAGON

Flying fingers of accordianists, D. Spencer, P. Romelli, J. Taheny, and C. Forster, delight the audience with their arrangement of "Hungarian Rhapsody."

"Tryouts will be held next week! Singers, dancers, comedians, bring your music and report to the auditorium at 3:00." This is the way it all begins, with an announcement on the bulletin at least a week before Christmas. Then, Mr. Brady and several other members of the faculty choose the acts that will comprise the extravaganza of the year—Bandwagon. Next come the weeks of continuous practice and sleepless nights, the endless conferences and plans. Drawings must be made for each stage setting and costume suggested. Mr. Brady and his committee must make selections, and gradually a whirl of activity gets under way in shops, art rooms, and household arts. Willing hands cut, saw, hammer, sew, and paint. Finally the night that everyone has shuddered to think about, yet anxiously awaited, arrives. A dark auditorium, the backstage roar, the last minute session with Mr. Brady, the tension in the air, and then the curtain opens on a packed house eager to view another gala Bandwagon show.

Barbara Brown, a star of Bandwagon for four years, sparkles again with her pretty smile and fast taps.

"The Song Is You," the girl is Elaine Kettlehut, and the audience is enchanted by this lovely musical combination.

Karen Springmyer intrigued the audience with her clever friend, "Goofus," on the marimba.

COLORFUL COSTUMES AND CLEVER ACTS HIGHLIGHT THE '56 SHOW

A glamorous background is provided by the pony chorus as Florence Wondrack dances gracefully to the fastmoving "Comedian's Gallop." Chorus line: Dixie Klemme, Joyce Bothwell, Barbara Brown, Carol Cottingham, Bonnie Craig, Elaine Traub, Janet Voll, Judy Richardson, Cherry Steioff, and Sandy Drew.

The audience enjoys the vibrant singing and colorful costumes of Senior Choir and soloists, J. Lee, K. Bergdolt, P. Frederick, R. Heady, and D. Haft, as they sing the memorable hits from "Oklahoma."

"OKLAHOMA," THE WATERFRONT, AND THE CIRCUS PROVIDE A

E. Casuto, J. Wodrich, M. L. Sievers, C. Kraus, P. Sullivan, and P. Koch softly harmonize to the lovely strains of "Beyond the Sea," as C. Steioff gracefully interprets the meaning in dance. J. Berger adds the final touch to the waterfront scene.

Peanuts, popcorn, and crackerjacks are all that are needed to complete the circus scene. Our experienced showmen, Pat Betts, Judy Richardson, Bill Anderson, Louis Pavloff, and Judy Tieman, provide the various acts typical of a circus.

VARIETY OF INTERESTING SETTINGS

Ginny Koerber, Joann Box, Judy Knoepfler, Sally Heidrich, and Nancy Jesse, just a few of the patient artists who made the attractive scenery for this year's Bandwagon, deserve much credit for their ardent work.

"Bill Haley's Comets?" No, but this jazz-conscious combo, consisting of B. Johnston, J. Hughes, B. Howarth, B. Browning, E. Morgan, C. Tieman, B. Stevens, and J. Green, creates a mood of "rock and roll" with their version of "See ya Later Alligator."

Tension builds as show-time approaches. Nervous performers, P. Stath, E. Morgan, B. Stevens, E. Annavedder, W. Neal, D. Letzler, and B. Craig practice the difficult parts in their routines, and talk over their hopes for a successful show.

"BIG TIME BOOGIE" IS A THRILLING CLIMAX FOR AN EXCELLENT SHOW

When the curtain falls on the first-night performance of Bandwagon, a wave of relief surges through the tense but happy cast. There may have been a few slips, a few flaws, but, on the whole, the show has made a hit! Every member of the cast feels a glow of satisfaction—all the practice has been worth while for that brief ten or twelve minutes on stage. With renewed energy and vigor, performers anticipate the second and third performances; and then, too soon, it is all over.

The climax of the '56 Bandwagon was "Big Time Boogie" done by our real cool cats in the pony chorus.

Mr. Brady, our musical director, carefully blends the tones of the various instruments, into one unified strain of music. Top: K. Heist, J. Berger, B. Howarth, Mr. Brady, J. Haas, J. Dixon, B. Browning, J. Smith, D. Kanet, K. Bergdolt. Bottom: N. Wohlwender, C. Tieman, M. Roesner, H. Mott, D. Letzler, B. Fuldner, J. Simpson, E. Morgan, L. Rothhaas, J. Hardy.

OUR ORCHESTRA PROVIDES A CHANCE FOR PUPILS TO EXPRESS TALENT

Our own Senior Orchestra, under the skillful direction of Mr. Brady, is responsible for making our musical world complete. What joy and beauty the music from our orchestra instills in us at our Thanksgiving and Christmas assemblies. What a thrill goes through the audience as the orchestra plays the fan-fare for Bandwagon. Only through hours of practice do the members reach the perfection for which they strive. The melodious tones of the string section, the dynamic force of the brass and percussion section, and the fine quality of the woodwinds combine to make West Hi's orchestra one of the best.

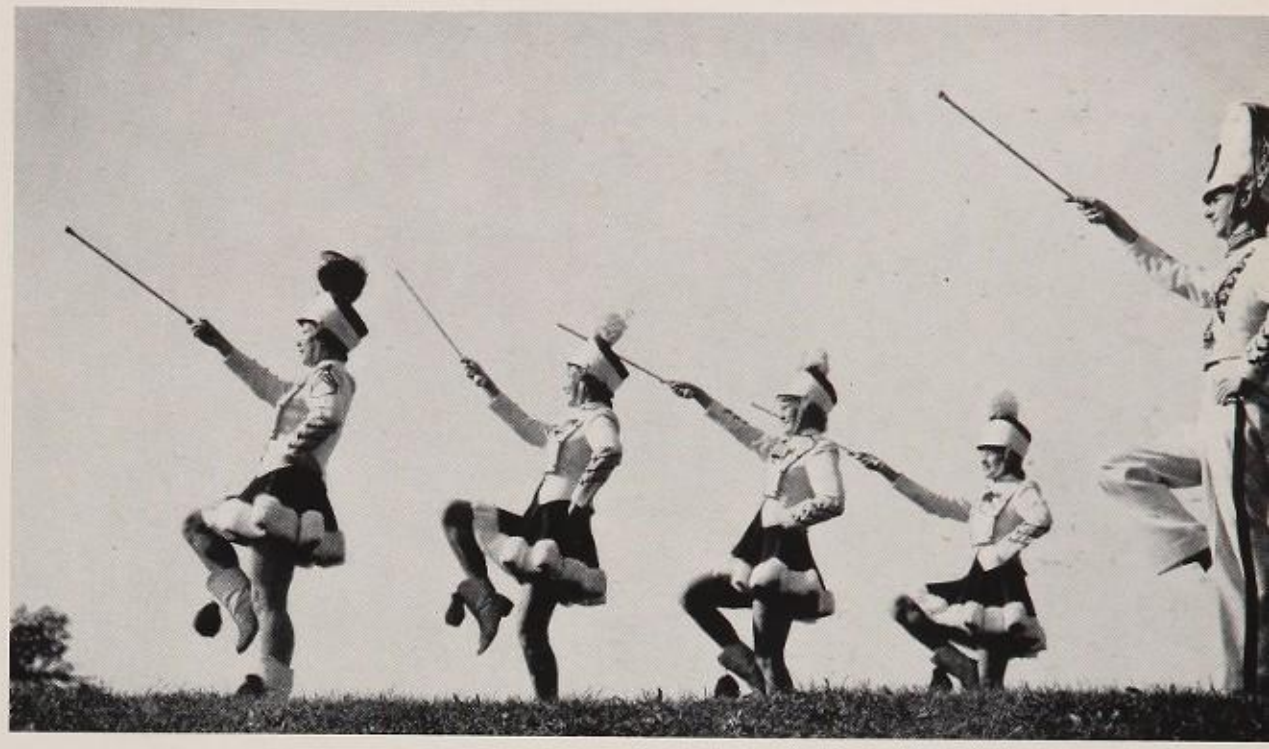
A table top, symbolic of Thanksgiving, is the Band formation at the Elder game. The crowd listens quietly as the band plays "Count Your Blessings."

Rain or shine, sleet or snow, the Band Show must go on! Band members keep this in mind as they trudge across Ferguson Road to the field in all kinds of weather for their daily hour of practice. Spectators expect a good performance at every game; they want no excuses; so, band members practice and practice! Many hours of hard work are behind the few minutes the band is actually on the field at the game.

In their striking new uniforms, the twirlers create interest and enthusiasm as they lead the band onto the field. Whether we win or lose, the twirlers and band members perform in high spirits, and raise the morale of the team and the spirit of the crowd.

The climax of the football season is the Elder game on Thanksgiving morning. This year's Turkey Day performance was a combination of previous band shows put on during the fall. After forming an umbrella, a covered-wagon, a snake, and a four-leafed clover, the band ended the show by forming a table top, and playing "Count Your Blessings." Yes, we're mighty proud of West Hi's marching band!

CHEERLEADERS, TWIRLERS, AND BAND BOOST OUR MORALE



In their new uniforms with a mustang and fur trim, our major, Ken Heist, and majorettes, Jane Hughes, Julie Shinkle, Kay Yearout, and Janet Voll, add sparkle to the appearance of the band.

The high spirited crowd cheered wildly as the cheerleaders, Carole Meyer, Carol Brech, Kay Kaemmerle, and Janet Sander, led the team through the band at the Thanksgiving game.

"Rookies," Randy Smith, Ron Harris, Ron Collins, and Jim Muellen find that carrying instruments for Jim Hughes, Lou Rothhaas, and Allen Deckenback isn't such an easy job. Our junior majorettes, Donna Hartig, Margie Haft, Susan Gieringer, and Steph Patty, don't seem to care about the rookies as they happily walk out to practice.

West Hi can truly be proud of her sixteen Cum Laude members, L. Kenty, B. Stevens, D. Brown, A. Dornbusch, D. Spackman, E. Rutenschroer, S. Hagenhoff, J. Wodrich, C. Kraus, J. Lugannani, J. Schaal, J. Stergiopoulos, K. Springmyer, B. Fuldner, D. Welti, and M. Van Lieu.

ACADEMIC, ARTISTIC, AND DRAMATIC TALENT RECEIVE THEIR SHARE

As Miss Mathis taps Carol Kraus, her happy expression proves Cum Laude is an honor and a great thrill.

The halls echo with whispers about Cum Laude, rumors are in every corner of the school. Teachers are quietly and busily meeting. It is almost a sure thing. Cum Laude must be tomorrow. But it isn't, no not tomorrow, nor the next week or even the week after. Finally the day arrives! Everyone is in the auditorium—students and teachers alike. All is quiet as Mr. Cadwallader announces that this is the day for Cum Laude tapping. Tension mounts as expectant seniors wait and hope that they will be among the few to achieve this honor. Moments of breathless suspense give way to hearty applause as each teacher taps his candidate and presents him with a Cum Laude key. This year there can be no question whether girls are more intelligent than boys, for eight boys and eight girls gain this honor. Cum Laude recognition is a coveted achievement, for it means that a student has maintained a scholastic average of 3.51 in fourteen academic subjects over a period of three years. Western Hills is proud to be one of the two public high schools in the city which are members of this honorary society.

OF ATTENTION

Art students, Janis Threm, Janet Buck, and Robert Ringenberger, express their ideas in several types of art work.

For the Latin Club assembly, Dick Simmonds and Bonnie Bank amused the audience by singing "The Great Big Saw Came Nearer and Nearer."

DRAMATICS CLASS PRESENTS MELODRAMA

The crowd hissed and booed the black-caped villain. They threw pennies at the squeaky-voiced lady. They shrieked as the scheming villain tied poor "Lily" to the railroad track. They clapped and cheered the "hero" when he rushed in to save her. The scene was our own auditorium. The occasion was the first presentation of the senior dramatics class. Their choice of a melodrama proved to be very popular. What fun it was for all of us to sit in assembly and be a part of an old-fashioned audience. After all the screaming we did, it will be a long time before we forget this excellent performance of "Way Down East."

Introducing the melodrama and filling in with cute remarks during the intermissions was the narrator, Carole Meyer.

Orvil Jones and his hunch-backed partner, Jack Kessler, threatened Nancy Dugger's life by tying her to a railroad track.

As Lou Rothhaas, Nancy Dugger, Charles Spreen, Janet Voll, and Ann Stubbs looked on anxiously, our hero, Joe Westerhaus, knocked out the villain, Orville Jones.

During the wedding ceremony of a native girl, Gwen lames, to seaman Ray Miller, priestess Kay Yearout blessed them as Barbara Hendrixson, Janet Sander, and Pat Frederick added effect to the ritual.

ENGLISH CLASS PRESENTS "MUTINY ON THE BOUNTY"

"Mutiny on the Bounty," presented by Mr. O'Neal's English class was one of the highlights of this year's assemblies. After reading the book, the class wrote the script and planned the production. Mrs. Nielander, a former teacher, cast the parts and directed the play, while dramatics teacher, Mr. McClure, helped add the finishing touches. The success of the amateur actors was shown in the reactions of the audience, which varied from horrified gasps at the whipping scene, to wistful sighs at the marriage scene.

The captain, Mike McMillan, was pleased as Bill Kennedy whipped John Hasz, but the rest of the crew, Carol Brech, Ray Miller, and Robert Malony, looked on scornfully.

Sam Sherrill and Jill Carson feel helpless as Kay Vandivort tries to comfort Virginia Siegal, after the shocking news that her husband has died.

THE SENIOR CLASS PLAY OF '56 IS A BIG SUCCESS!

Students on the stage crew, in dramatics class, and in art classes all pitch in to help make an attractive set.

Giving artificial respiration to a turtle are Ollie Hiers, Joan Niemas, Virginia Siegal, Ellyn Rutenschroer, Nancy Dugger, Charles Spreen, and Janet Voll.

SMOOTH PRODUCTION IS DUE TO CO-OPERATION BEHIND THE SCENES

The stage is set, the lights dim, the audience is silent, and the cast waits in nervous anticipation to present the two-act comedy, "Room For One More." The situation is met with mixed emotion by the excited dramatics class members. "Will I remember that long line I always forget? Will I remember all my stage properties? I surely wish this thing were over!" But when the curtains are drawn, and the performance is over, their thoughts go back to the many hours spent at rehearsals and at home, in preparation for the play. The cast remembers all the helpful suggestions given by their director, Mr. McClure, whose patient guidance made the Senior Class Play of '56 the big success that it was.

Ken Lawrence, Joan Niemas, Ellyn Rutenschroer, Virginia Siegal, Janet Voll, and Sam Sherril were startled to see the rescued woman, Arlene Kelsch rush in.

MR. SIEKMANN, our Athletic Director, plays a vital part in every student's life by his enthusiastic promotion of our athletic program. His understanding, appreciation, and encouragement have helped to develop the skills and personalities of many potential athletes.

"I believe that physical education and competitive athletics contribute greatly to the character, happiness, and well-being of boys and girls. Everyone who participates in athletics opens for himself new horizons for personal development, enriched living, and wholesome fun. Understanding of good sportsmanship, appreciation of the personal worth of athletics, and enjoyment of good fellowship are a few of the carry-over values of sports. In team play both boys and girls experience the deep satisfactions and joys of striving with others toward a common goal. Those of us who play a small part in helping students acquire the ability to enjoy and profit by athletics feel rewarded when we see them continue in the 'athletic way.'"

FOOTBALL INTRODUCES A YEAR OF SPORTING EVENTS

Dick Kuehn bulls ahead for extra yardage as we beat Hughes.

Fall, winter, and spring sports contribute to an assorted, thrilling athletic year at Western Hills. Football, which opens the season is one of the most popular spectator sports. Though the Mustangs sported a somewhat less-than-perfect season this year, spirit was not lacking. Coach Kappes and the boys deserve considerable credit for their determined spirit to win. The fine play this year is a strong indication of next year's possibilities. With the return of twenty-seven lettermen, West Hi should have a bright future.

FOOTBALL TEACHES FAIR PLAY AND LAYS THE FOUNDATION FOR FUTURE CHAMPIONS

The sports year of 1955-56 was ushered in by an assembly designed to encourage school spirit. The student body was given an insight into the complex game of football as coach Kappes put his charges through a demonstration of various offensive and defensive formations and the team finished up with a scrimmage. The assembly had some effect, it seems, as the increase in school spirit was encouraging. Long before the assembly took place, however, the team drilled many long hours to erase the imperfections which hinder a balanced team effort. This practicing paid off in West Hi's two most thrilling games when we upset Hughes and trounced Woodward. Although this year fate found it impossible for us to win all our games, the members of the team still gained a knowledge of some of the essentials of success in life: teamwork, spirit, courage, discipline, and perseverance. With this valuable experience in competitive athletics, West Hi's footballers are better equipped to meet and conquer the challenges of the future.

FOOTBALL HIGHLIGHTS 1955-56

LIMA (0-13) The Mustangs traveled to meet the new Lima Consolidated High School, but lost a hard fought contest as the Spartans scored both TD's in the first half.

TAFT (0-6) The Mustang offense was again impotent as it failed to score after twice being within the Senators' 10-yard line. Taft scored in the second quarter winning their first PHSL contest.

CENTRAL (7-19) The game was highlighted by a 35-yard touchdown pass from Fred Schneider to Bud Meyer, but the Knights had too much offense.

PURCELL (0-32) Purcell scored early and often, racing back the opening kickoff 85 yards for a TD. Bob Kain led Purcell's scoring with three touchdowns.

HUGHES (21-13) Terrific line play and excellent play calling by quarterback Bob Shimizu gave West Hi its first win of the season. Dick Kuehn, with two TD's, and Wayne Streibig, with one, led the Mustangs' scoring. Speedster Fred Macklin scored twice for the Big Reds. It was West Hi's first win over Hughes in four years and a great team victory.

WITHROW (0-25) The Tigers, led by Ritchie and Feldhaus, ran up a 19-0 score at halftime, adding one insurance marker in the third period.

WOODWARD (41-0) Led by Al Chase with two TD's and 147 yards in ten carries, the Mustangs rolled up 505 yards in their most powerful effort of the season. Dick Kuehn, with two TD's, and Harry Panaro and Dick Hayes, with one each, gave the Mustangs their second win of the year.

WALNUT HILLS (7-13) Western scored first in the second quarter to lead at halftime. Walnut scored twice in the third quarter to defeat the Mustangs in a close game.

ELDER (6-27) Fumbles spelled defeat for the Mustangs as an alert Panther eleven capitalized on every break. The Mustangs scored a consolation marker in the second period as Harry Panaro went 8 yards for the score.

Streibig gains in Elder game.

This year the Maroon Mustang reserve football team fared a bit better than the varsity. Under the able direction of coach Woody Singerman, the little Mustangs worked hard to perfect the fundamental skills so vital to victory. This year's reserve squad had many promising players who may develop into stars in future years. With these boys moving up, the varsity should be considerably better.

The boys on the reserve look up to our varsity team members and hope that some day they may obtain equal skill. Bill Graves, the captain of the varsity team was honored by the Cincinnati Post, being selected for the All-Star first eleven, and junior tackle Al Klein was also honored by being selected on the All-State honorable mention team, giving the boys something to work toward.

Managers, Skip Gibson, Doug Bunce, and Nelson Homan, are helping Captain Bill Graves into his equipment before a game.

CROSS COUNTRY RUNNERS WORK HARD BUT FIND OUT ITS FUN TO RUN

The reserve cross-country team, which has many boys competing, was a great help in training the boys for future cross-country teams and other varsity sports. With the return of lettermen Taylor Barker, Joe Gehring, Don Rau, Dale Guckenberger, and Norm Zoller, the cross-country team will have plenty of experience.

The varsity team led by such runners as Dave Vonstein, Dave Francis, Don Phillips, and Jim Hughes placed in many events and found fun in running. The year was climaxed when the team placed third in the city meet.

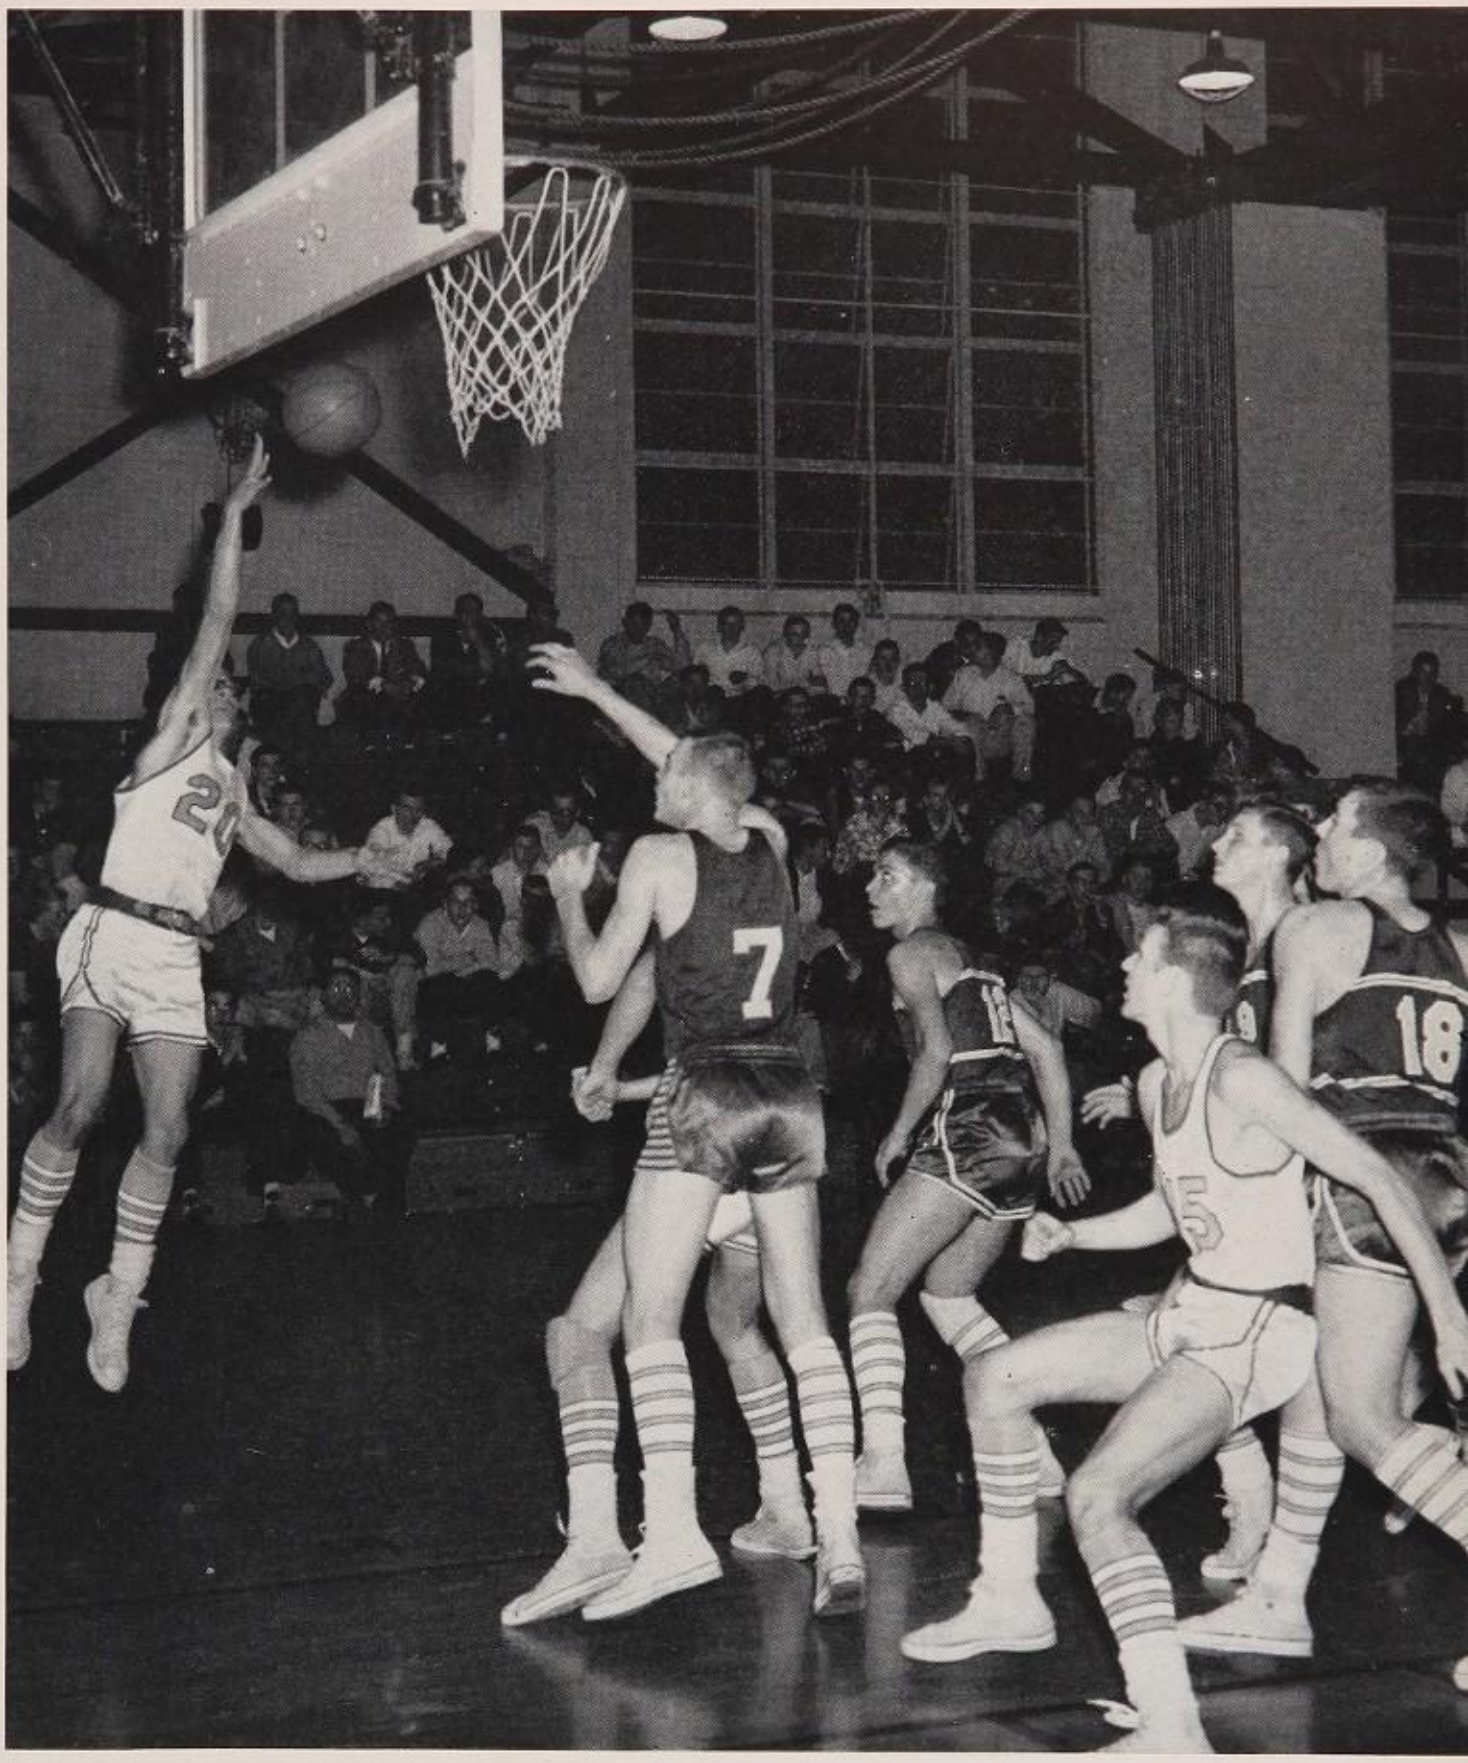
MUSTANGS FINISH SEASON STRONG—FOURTH IN PHSL

To produce a team which has fine quality and co-ordination in the short time that elapses between the end of football season and the opening of the basketball season is a difficult task. Coach Siekmann and his boys, however, concentrate hard practice after school for a period of three or four weeks. This year's team, with only three seniors, Tom Angus, Ken Bunger, and Jim Schmidt, started off with little experience, but as the season progressed the juniors, Bob Elliot, Bob Czerwinski, Fred Schneider, and Ken Sappington helped the team greatly. With the return of six lettermen next year, West Hi looms as one of the top teams in contention for the Public High School League.



Captain Tom Angus "lays one up" as the Mustangs edge Central. Although the game was tied several times, Ken Bunger put in the winning points in the final two seconds of play.

SWIMMING, BOWLING, GYM TEAM PROVIDE WINTER ACTIVITIES

Everyday after school the Gym team was seen practicing for perfection in their individual stunts. The boys performed on various apparatus, such as, the side horse, parallel bar, and horizontal bar. Coach Paul Nohr trains the boys to the highest peak of perfection possible.

This year's swimming team, under the direction of Coach Jim Heinold, practiced vigorously. To prepare for every Thursday's meet the team swam Friday, Monday, and Wednesday for two hours after school. The test of their stamina, however, came on Tuesday morning when the boys had to report at 7:30 for one hour's practice before school.

The bowling team, with only Art Mahaffey back this year, began the season with little experience. Though this experience was lacking, the team competed with the usual Mustang enthusiasm. The bowling team ended the season in fourth place.

Around the track, just once more—I did it! Now to the high jump. If only I could clear those six feet. Maybe if I keep practicing, I can! On to the calisthenics—only twenty more push ups. Over to the discus. Someday I'll hurl it over that fence! At last my first practice is over. Now for a hot shower and home to a good meal.

Ted Gecks grunts and groans as the discus whirls through the air.

MUSTANG THINCLADS RACE TO BEST SEASON IN RECENT YEARS

This year's track team, headed by a large group of returning lettermen, practiced untiringly on the fundamentals of track and brought home many first's in different events. Dave Borders paced the team by placing in the broad jump, in the 440 yard dash, and on the relay team. Don Philipps and Dave Vol Stein were by far the best distance runners. Not to be forgotten are the hurdlers, led by ace Bud Meyer and junior letterman, John Edwards, both of whom are excellent runners.

The shot put, discus, and the high and broad jumps were field events in which the most points were gained. Footballers, Bill Graves, Bill Gilbert, together with Jerry Steele were the best shot-putters while Graves, Steele, and Ted Gecks were the leading disc men.

Jumper Dave Borders, ably assisted by letterman Dick Mohaupt, excelled in the high and broad jumps. The track team looked forward to taking some places in the district meet while building for the future at the same time.

VETERAN SENIORS AND ENERGETIC JUNIORS

The experienced pitching staff of Lou Rothhaas, Art Mahaffey, and Ron Ott lead Mustangs to many victories.

PLAY GOOD BALL

At the first sign of spring, baseball fever is stirred at Western Hills. Even before the coming of good baseball weather our team, under the excellent leadership of coach Paul Nohr, works out in the gymnasium. During these sessions of drilling the team sharpens their batting eyes while the pitchers perfect their control. Play situations are also studied. The head start gained by the Maroons gives them a noticeable advantage in the early season. This year's squad boasts an excellent mound staff led by veteran Art Mahaffey. Other members of the staff are Lou Rothhaas, Ron Ott, Jack Horton, Fred Schneider, and George Berkely. Dick Kuehn, backed up by Jim Phillips, covers the plate. In the infield the Maroons have Ken Bunger and Ed Eckel at first base, captain Bill Carder at second base, Art Dornbusch and Ken Sappington at shortstop, and Fred Fox and Joe Winn at the hot corner. Harry Panaro, Bob Czerwinski, Tom Wagner, Jim Schmidt, and Milt Schlenker compose the outfield.

Eddie Eckel leaps high in the air to get a wild throw.

The Reserve Baseball Team rests after a hard practice. First Row: D. Busch, R. Bolino, T. Sperber, C. Haft, D. Eicher, N. Homan, C. Meyer. Second Row: J. Reusing, D. Albers, T. Murphy, J. Seegar, R. This year, Coach Singerman was greeted by four returning lettermen, of which three, captain Fred Hoefle, Terry Sieve, and Ned Hauss, will man the singles positions. In the beginning of the season the team failed to live up to expectations, but Coach Singerman teamed the remaining member of last year's District Doubles Champion team, Fred Hoefle, with Terry Sieve, in the hope of finding another championship doubles pair. In the first picture at the right, Fred Hoefle is shown sending his booming serve across the net, and Terry Sieve slices a backhand in the second. In the third, Ned Hauss hits a solid forehand stroke.

The officers of Jr. GAA, Coleen Corcoran, Lynn Kohl, Bonnie Brueggemann, Dianne Brater, Karen Lundin, and Janice Remle, chat together before their meeting to plan activities.

The Girls Athletic Association, under the guidance and direction of Miss Witte, began the year with a rousing Bon Voyage Party to interest all girls in becoming members. Here the aims of G.A.A.—fun, fellowship, and good sportsmanship—were stressed. As the year progressed, hockey, swimming, basketball, and baseball were not the only interests of G.A.A. As a Thanksgiving project, the organization contributed baskets for needy families; at Christmas, a party was held where the girls got together for gift exchanging, carol singing, and refreshments. The May Banquet, where the girls listened to speeches, received awards, and screamed joyously at the announcement of the 1956 Ring Girl, climaxed the year. This ended another chapter in G.A.A.'s history; a chapter filled with fun, fellowship, and high inspiration.

G. A. A. PROMOTES SKILLS IN SPORTS

Pat Stath seems to be doing a thriving business for G.A.A. Sharon Triplet is enjoying one of those delicious apples, while her friends, Nancy Allen, Deanna Patterson, and Terry Stoler, have been persuaded that nothing can beat G.A.A. apples for only a dime.

Our active and smoothly running gym department is largely the responsibility of four energetic people—Mrs. Cook, Miss Oberman, Mrs. Lilly, Miss Witte.

The Mr. Western Hills Dance, given in February, was one of the money-making projects of the year. Bill Graves, the boy that captured the title, was sponsored by Maureen Allen. Pictured around them are the other sponsors—Carole Meyer, Georgia Stewart, Janie Hughes, Mary Lu Sievers, front row; Jean Tuerck, Doreen Spackman, Cherry Steioff, Carol Staft, Karen Springmyer.

Advanced hockey team: K. Kaemmerle, C. Meyer, J. Hughes, K. Yearout, J. Sander, J. Avey, S. Rebholz.

Anything can happen on the hockey field and usually does when active hockey players get together. A game of tug of war is taking place between Georgia Stewart, Elaine Kettlehut, Nancy Cushman and Dixie Lee.

SHIN GUARDS, STICKS AND

Out the door! Down the street! Over the bridge! Around the corner! The familiar half-mile trip to Oskamp field is known to every hockey player. At the field the usual hassle over equipment begins—someone has two left shin guards, another a broken hockey stick. Finally the whistle blows—a crack of sticks, the whirr of the puck sailing down the field, yells to teammates, a cry of "ouch," a cheer for the goalie as she saves a goal—the game is on. Both teams can not win but each congratulates the other on good plays. Victorious or defeated, it mattered little—this was hockey 1955.

ENERGETIC GIRLS SUPPLY HOCKEY WITH ACTION

Hockey enthusiasts soon learn that independent glory has no place in this sport. Teamwork is essential! It's one for all and all for one if the game is to be won and enjoyed. The teamwork and hard work pay off, however, for those girls who are chosen to play on the advanced team; and the success of the season depends, not on the number of games won or lost, but on the fellowship and fun enjoyed by all. Though few games were won this year, all gloom was forgotten in the excitement of the hockey supper where hockey manager Janie Hughes climaxed the evening with the announcement of Meg Flickinger as her successor.

Above: Janie Hughes, hockey manager, has a big job checking equipment for repairs at the end of the season.
Right: Watch out! They're about to score; Kay Yearout tense'y guards the goal as Joyce Wodrich and Arlene Kelsch try to score.

The swimming activities of 1955 and 1956 were well supported by girls who had visions of becoming mermaids. The activities consisted of life-saving, water-polo, diving, and swimming team practice. Behind the swimming program stood the coaches, keeping the pool free of catastrophy and teaching the girls techniques for improving their strokes.

Many girls felt that they received the most rewarding part of their aqua knowledge from life-saving. From this they learned how to revive shocked, and asphixiated victims. They acquired another part of their education from the experience of actually saving a drowning friend and learning tricks to make the victim cease struggling. Now, the girls proudly exhibit their hard-earned emblems or pins, for which they suffered through the rugged course.

NEPTUNE'S NEIGHBORS OBTAIN

The 1955 life-saving program sailed the waves quite smoothly. Twenty-four girls passed their senior tests, while Judy Tieman, Tony Warburg, Peggy Heisel, Marion White, Virginia Vornheder, Tina Harsham, Ann Patton, Barb Tuerck, Judy Richardson, and Billy Kaemmerle, representatives of the six who passed junior-life saving, are pictured to the right, reviewing the fireman and saddle-back carries.

The Life-Saving Corps, picked for their ability to swim, supervised the swimming program this year. The seven girls above—Carol Brech, Marty Bose, Bonnie Craig, Penny Gieble, Cherry Steioff, Mary Lu Sievers, and Jean Tuerck—captained teams, coached diving, and helped prepare the team for the city meet.

POSSESSION OF SPEED, FORM, ENDURANCE, AND CO-ORDINATION

Water polo followed life-saving, bringing with it a great competitive spirit and love for the vigorous game. Friends turned to foes for the duration of the game, but at the sound of the whistle all was well again and a noisy confab ensued.

The season of water polo was interrupted by the need for team practice for the city meet. Now it was time for the fun to turn to hard, honest work, for hundreds of lengths had to be swum in preparation for the competition that had to be met. While the free-stylers and back strokers marked off innumerable lengths, the diving team executed hundreds of dives.

Synchronized swimming is held sixth bell for girls wishing to learn grace and rhythm in the water. Making use of this knowledge by performing ballet legs are Janet Sander, Sandy Voigt, Ann Kerl, and Esther Eubank.

GRITTING TEETH, STRAINING MUSCLES, AND TEAMWORK=BASKETBALL

Members of the advanced team are: First Row: S. Gysin, R. Groth, K. Springmyer, J. Blankenship, M. Adler, J. Tuerck, Mrs. Cook. Second Row: N. Wohlwender, K. Yearout, M. Flickinger, J. Avey, C. Gudgeon, M. White, L. Liddil. Third Row: D. Hauss, C. Weiss, T. Warburg, B. Tuerck, A. Patton, J. Tuertscher, C. Meyer.

Opposite page: Debby Beiser, Laurice Liddil, and Sara Gysin maneuver the ball into an advantageous position. Below Jean Tuerck tries for a basket with a lay-up shot.

Tossing a ball into a basket turned the attention of almost 220 girls from volleyball to basketball. Tryouts for the advanced team were held before the season really started, and as a result 20 energetic, capable girls carried West Hi's colors to several victories and close defeats. Girls not on the advanced team formed teams consisting of ten or eleven girls who competed against each other for several weeks for the championship. As the season closed, ninety girls with the best ability were chosen to go to a playday where, with other public high schools of the city, they literally fought for victories but accepted defeats with smiles. Finally the season was climaxed at the basketball supper where Jean Tuerck passed the ball and managership to Nancy Wohlwender as a surprising birthday gift.

Mrs. Lilly shows Joyce Miller and the advanced team, J. Blankenship, M. Flickinger, C. Meyer, E. Bovard, J. Melillo, S. Gysin, S. Brammer, S. Scheidt, J. Avey, J. Tuerck, the technique of bunting.

SPRING + GIRLS + FIELD BAT & BALL = BASEBALL + FUN

The outfielders are in position, the alert infielders crouch in grim determination, a batter steps into the box and the ump yells, "Play ball!" For the next hour girls will be slugging homers and circling bases in a spirit of good sportsmanship. Win or lose, each girl enjoys the game and the warm friendly rays of the sun beating down on the back of her neck.

Sandy Scheidt's at bat! She's small but a mighty slugger. Joanne Melillo is forcing someone out at second.

Who is this gal trudging up the stairs loaded with bats and balls? Carole Meyer, our efficient baseball manager, of course! Pick up that glove Carole, you'll need it for the next game.

To the victorious belong the smiles. Homeroom 115 won the co-rec volleyball tournament, the only intra-school athletic sport in which boys and girls participate. Whether the boys played harder and the girls helped or vice versa—is still a matter of debate, but the game was fun.

"You're out! Two points! Goal!" are familiar words to members of the umpires' class. Under the guidance of Miss Witte the girls learn the rules and regulations of every team sport.

Carol Corwin, umpire manager, and Miss Witte show proper procedures to members of the umpires' class. First Row: Julie Liggett, Gwen Iames, Sandy Voigt, Sandy Vetter, Anna Winningham. Second Row: Marty Bose, Carol Trout, Ann Alexander, Janet Richter, Donna Hauss, Carol Weiss, Judy Myers, Heather Buck, Margaret Neubler, Nancy Allen, Maureen Wessa, Lois Bachman.

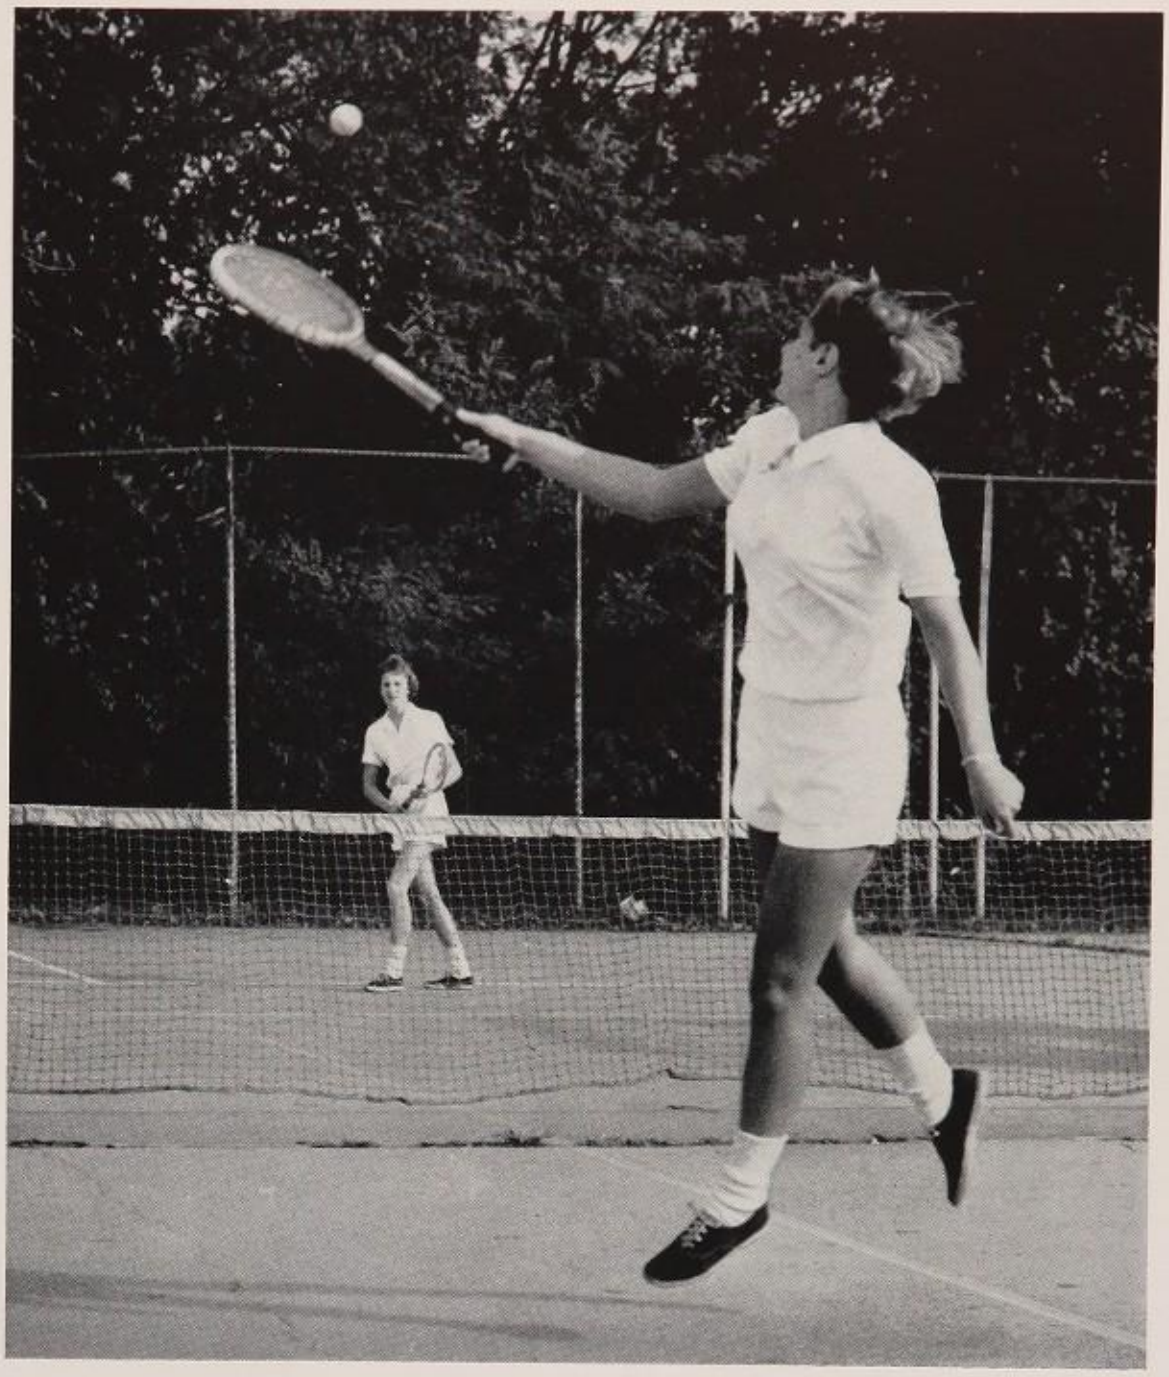
With beaming faces, the winners of the co-rec volleyball tournament peer through the net. Members of the happy team are Russ Vickory, Meg Flickinger, Walter Flender, Judy Ebel, John Edwards, Kathy Eckert, Roger Frank, Sue Flamm, Fred Fox, and Bonnie Craig.

Mary Griley stretches to return with a back hand Judy Linton's serve in this fast moving game of badminton.

Stamina is what it takes to play badminton, according to champ Joyce Bothwell. Players are on their toes every second, keeping an eye on the birdie and struggling to return every serve. Those who win, however, are finally honored with medals at the spring banquet.

Ping pong balls flashed back and forth as 200 girls wielded their paddles in the first game of the tournament. Later, excitement ran high as semi-finals were played off and Barbara Speer emerged as victor. The girls who came out "second best," nevertheless, gained experience and had fun in the consolation tournament.

Ping pong manager Phyllis Koch managed time-out to keep score for players Linda Hale and Ginny Koerber as they plug away preparing for the spring tournament.



Fast action on the court is displayed by Ruth Groth and Barbara Bicking, our senior tennis champs. Learning how to stroke the ball and attain a sound game the girls practiced day after day.

AGILITY, STRENGTH AND STAMINA ARE REQUIRED FOR TENNIS

Spring brings not only budding trees, flowers, and warm days, but also tennis racquets and balls with their accompanying enthusiasts. Tennis might not be the sport of kings but it is definitely the sport of queens! Day after day girls are seen on the courts volleying balls, practicing serves, perfecting backhands, rushing to the net for smashing placements. Tennis is an individual sport in which only hard work and hours of practice can result in championship play and only in a doubles match does a girl share her ability with a team mate. Barbara Bicking, our capable tennis manager, encouraged a large group of shorts-clad tennis queens to a very successful season.

Volleying, spiking, and tipping the ball were fundamentals learned by Fran Landers, Gloria Bruestle, Carol Traut, Judy Myers, and Mardy Moellering during the volleyball season.

Florence Wondrack, Gwen Iames, and Geraldine Cline, all look as if they could easily shoot an apple off someone's head and still leave him in one piece.

The whir of arrows whizzing through the air was heard as the archery season began. Once again girls with their eye on the bull's eye and on the future practiced many hours to perfect their shooting. The determined archers received their rewards when they placed in the tournament which ended the year.

Volleyball followed archery as the season progressed. The girls soon learned that teamwork was essential. Toward the end of the season a playday was held at Withrow and Walnut Hills. Here volleyball teams from all of the public schools competed. Although West Hi's teams did not win, they, nevertheless, made a good showing.

During the year modern dance constituted a major part of the senior girls' activities. Shoeless and wearing black leotards, the girls learned to move more gracefully to either the rhythmic beat of a drum or the sweet strains of "Poor People of Paris" or "Lisbon Antiqua." Near the end of the season members of the classes represented Western Hills in a modern dance symposium.

Strike? Spare? Gutter! During the last ten years, bowling has become a major sport across the country, and West Hi is no exception. One hundred twenty-five girls on twenty-five teams, under the guidance of Miss Bolsen, bowled from November 1 to April 30. At the spring banquet the champion bowler received honors.

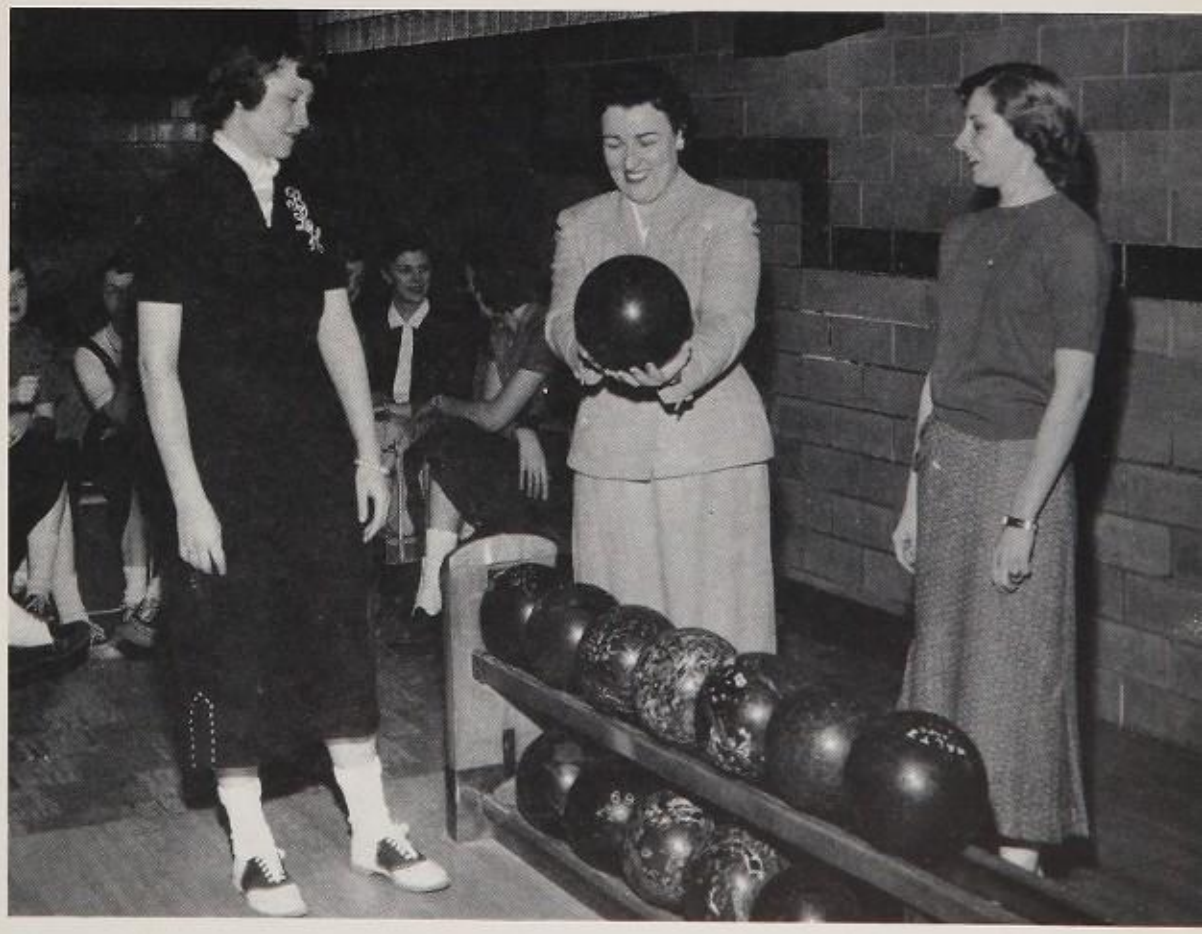
Holding the ball correctly is essential in bowling. Managers Brenda Hoffmann and Diane Mayr receive instructions from Miss Bolsen, bowling adviser.



Behold, how good and how pleasant

it is for brethren to dwell together in unity!

—PSALM 133:1

Wherever girls are found in groups, NANCY CUSHMAN, President of Y-Teens, is there sharing in the fun. Nancy's realization of the need for organized fellowship in high school is shown by her participation in these various activities: Y-Teens, G.A.A. and Sr. Girls' Club.

"My philosophy can be simply expressed by two words: Love and Wisdom. These words, though common in our vocabulary, are very basic for happiness. Love is that joyous feeling created in associations between our fellowmen. Expressed in our daily contact with all people by a smile or even a glance it makes the world a better place in which to live. Wisdom, that comes from learning, can help us meet and understand the problems that arise during our lives. With such knowledge we can solve these problems and improve our world. With Love and Wisdom in our lives we the youth of today may take full advantage of the opportunities awaiting us and provide a world of peace."

At Western Hills we believe in fellowship in all things, whether it is in sports, social activities, or our school work. Through membership in the many clubs we can develop character, further our education, and spend many pleasant hours together. There are numerous academic associations which we may join according to our interests. The members of these, sharing a common enthusiasm, enjoy a feeling of comradeship and of belonging. Future Nurses Club is an ideal organization for those planning a career in nursing. A name on the lips of many students at West Hi is Latin Club. Many and varied are the projects sponsored by this organization. Members of the Science Club further their knowledge in this field through experiments, speakers, and trips. Western Hills also includes some groups affiliated with the YMCA; namely, Senior and Junior Y-Teens, and Hi-Y. These, too, offer many activities.

In addition, there are sororities and fraternities which some students join for the friendship which grows among the members of such a group. Dances, hayrides, parties, and many other get-to-gethers fill the days. Also, much time is spent on charitable projects such as filling Thanksgiving baskets, visiting institutions, and collecting for worthy causes. The president of each social group belongs to Interfratority which works with the school to maintain the high standard of the sororities and fraternities.

One can easily see that there are many opportunities for fellowship at Western Hills, whether it is in a group with a common ambition or interest, or whether it is in an organization for companionship.

Barbara Christe, Sue Ferguson, Judy Halker, and Patty Knasp rehearse the "hula" for the World Faith program of Jr. Y. Teens.

FELLOWSHIP IS PROVIDED THROUGH PARTICIPATION IN Y GROUPS

Jr. Y Teens welcomed the school year with a get-acquainted party for seventh grade girls to promote among members the symbolic ideals of the Y.W.C.A. triangle; spiritual, mental, and physical development. Ever willing to help, Y Teens sponsor, Miss Kolks, taught the girls the "hula" which was displayed at the World Faith meeting at the Central Y. The Parkway Day Center was the scene of the Christmas party where gifts and cookies made by Y-Teens were distributed among the eager children. The Y Teens greeting card booth contributed greatly to the success of the carnival. Throughout the year the members of Jr. Y Teens worked hard to build toward a successful future as Y Teens in senior high school and college, to carry out their ideals; spiritual, mental, and physical development.

Something new was added at West Hi this year in the form of the Future Nurses Club. This club gives senior girls interested in nursing an opportunity to inquire about and witness incidents in their future careers. Organization of the club began with the election of Gayle Thomas as president. The first activity was a tour of General Hospital where the girls became acquainted with routine and studies involved in nurses' training at U. C. Other activities were panel discussions, teas at various hospitals in the city, and chances to discover opportunities for nurses in the armed services. Climaxing the year was a trip to Longview State Hospital. Since Future Nurses Club is located in only two schools in Cincinnati, its activities are experimental and hopes of expanding are anticipated by each member.

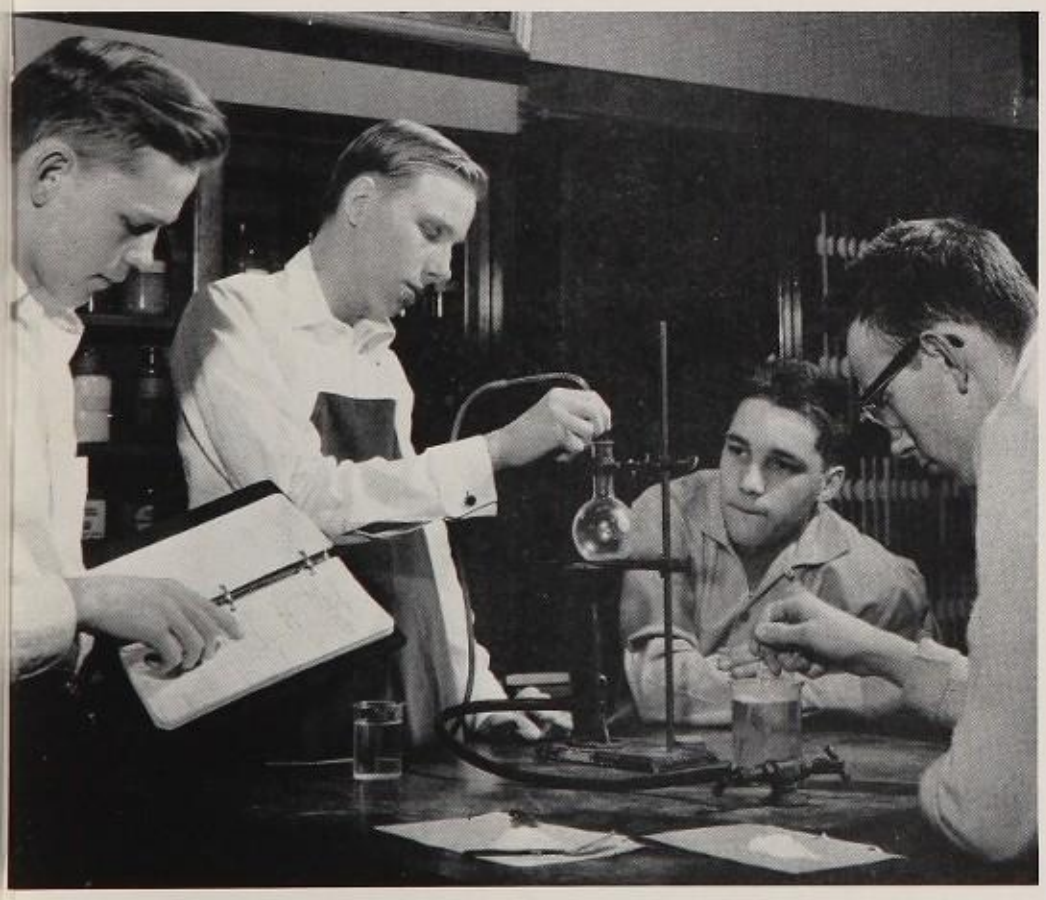
AND THE NUMEROUS ACADEMIC CLUBS WHICH OFFER MANY ACTIVITIES



Making an ammonia fountain are D. Brown, B. Stevens, J. Cutler, S. Hagenhoff.

Students of the popular language, Latin, may share their interest outside the classroom by joining Latin Club. This organization, sponsored by the hardworking Miss Bolan, certainly accomplished much this year. The group presented the movie "Ulysses" at the Westwood Theatre for students of Western Hills, Seton, and Mother of Mercy High Schools and visited the classics library at the University of Cincinnati. The club also sponsors the Donut Booth at the carnival and holds a banquet for members, their parents, and friends in the spring. Any student reading "Caesar" or the "Aeneid" may be a member. Those in Latin I may join after the first semester if they have maintained an "A" average. Many boys and girls who have taken Latin but are not taking it now participate in this organization.

What was known last year by the pretentious title of "Scientific Honor Society" has changed its name this year to the more down-to-earth "Science Club." A board composed of five members—Bob Stevens, Dave Brown, Carl Fischer, Jim Stergiopoulos, and John Cutler, plus a secretary, Stan Hagenhoff, and treasurer, Lee Kenty—make most of the plans for the club. Assisting with the bigger problems are Mrs. Walter, Mr. Dunkel, and Mr. Minesinger. Meetings every two weeks, films on scientific subjects, interesting discussions, and exciting experiments keep the members of this organization busy. Because the club is young it is fairly small, but everyone hopes that its membership will steadily increase. Anyone interested in science who has at least a "C" average in the subject may join the Science Club.

Friendship

The most powerful and the most lasting friendships are those of the early season of our lives when we are most susceptible of warm and affectionate impressions.

—FITZOBORNE

A warm smile, a sincere thought, a helping hand: yes, all these describe our active and friendly President of Student Council, JIM STERGIOPOULOS. Jim carries a great deal of responsibility on his shoulders but he's always on the job with plenty of enthusiasm and understanding.

"Perhaps one of the greatest rewards a man can receive from life is happiness. Because my philosophy partly hinges on the belief that one can receive from life only as much as he puts into it, I believe that the key to happiness should lie in the accomplishment of the following objectives: first, to have faith in God in order that we may come closer to our Creator; second, to obtain an education in order that we may better understand the world we live in; and third, to achieve true and permanent friendships in order that we may be accepted by our contemporaries. Whoever applies this much to life will find a deep and satsifying happiness. This I believe."

The first day of school found many Juniors and Seniors gathered in our front hall comparing notes after the summer vacation and reviewing old friendships.

STUDENTS ARE EAGER TO RENEW OLD FRIENDSHIPS

A school year begins and the air is filled with excitement. It is Orientation Day and the seventh graders get their first glimpse of the school that is to be theirs for the next six years. This is a new adventure, the beginning of part of their lives that will remain in their hearts for an entire lifetime. During the next few minutes, they will travel through the school and view the many things that students here enjoy. They will see our library with its vast assortment of books, the swimming pool with its cooling blue water, and the lunchroom with its long tables and hundreds of chairs. Seventh graders soon realize the fun they will be having and the newly made friends they will acquire. Now the time has come, and the students who in June walked out thinking of the pleasant summer ahead are back and ready to cope with the problems their new subjects will present. They know hard work is necessary to make good grades, but when hard work is combined with the many sports, clubs and activities in which they will take part, it all goes to make up a successful school year.

Student Council plans for 1955-56 were begun a year ago in May with the election of officers. Pictured here are some of the campaigners and posters, which urged us to vote for our favorite candidate.

Even before the first day of school, activities are in progress at Western Hills. The Orientation Program, whose purpose is to acquaint newcomers with Western Hills, is planned many weeks before the opening of school. Here we see Dixie Lee acting as guide to a group of seventh graders.

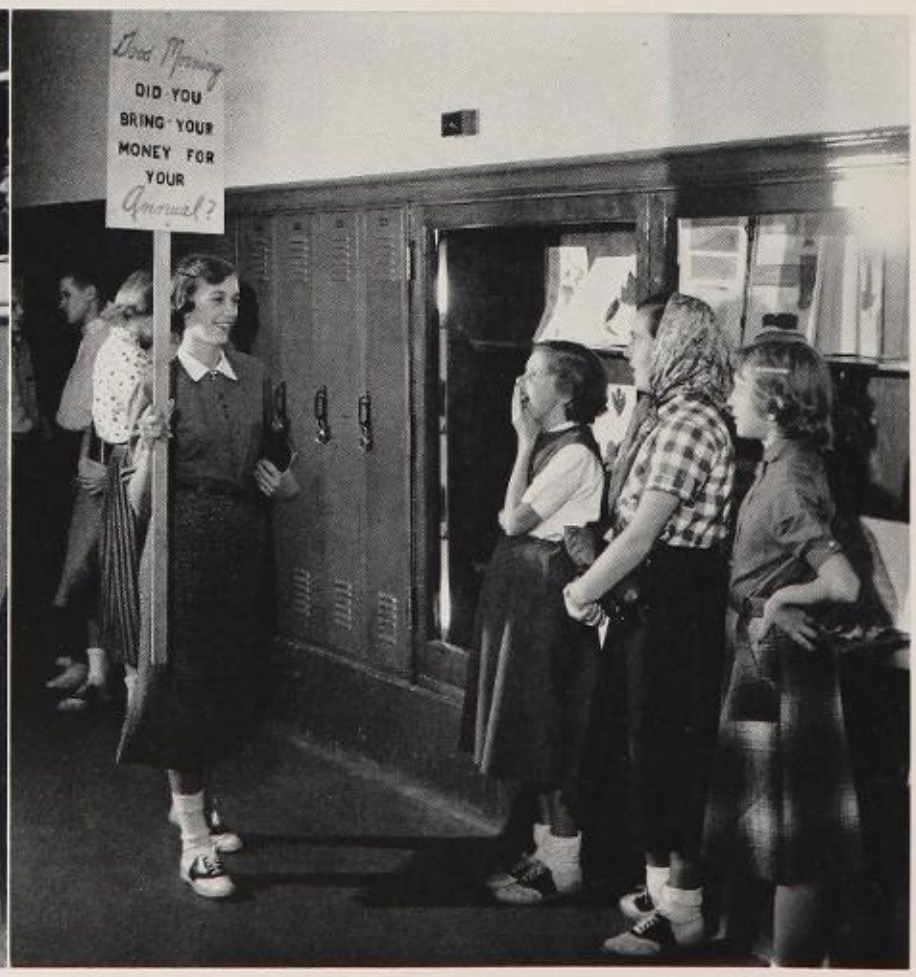
The Annual Staff initiated a new plan for getting subscribers for the Annual at West Hi this year. The afternoon before Annual payment day found Dick Simmonds carrying a poster reminding us not to forget our Annual money for the next day, while on the morning of Annual payment day Nancy Walker was seen carrying a poster urging us not to spend our Annual payment elsewhere.



These girls, who are pictured eagerly reaching for a pennant, can be counted upon to attend our football games and help cheer on our team.

SCHOOL SPIRIT IS GAINED THROUGH ACTIVITIES

It's back to the old routine for teachers and students alike. The halls are filled with the usual crowds, and hungry students wait in long lines for lunch. Book boys go hurrying by to learn the requirements of each teacher, and fingers are tired from signing cards. Students mob the Supply Store and keep the boys busy filling orders. Whether it is bus tokens or math tablets, the Supply Store has it in stock. Teachers and pupils alike fumble with the new combinations for their lockers, and oh, the lucky student who ends up with the top half. In the gymnasium the new Seventh Grade girls wonder if the day will ever come when they can reach with ease into their gym baskets. Soon both gyms will be filled with the shouts of boys and girls. Each weekend will bring the excitement of another football game. What an opportunity to prove we are good sports, win or lose. Loyal rooters like to display a Western Hills pennant and big business goes on in the hallway sales department. Teams are being organized in every sport and everyone with school spirit has bought his football pass. All the students are saying, "This is a new year; let's make it a good one."

Reaching for a gym basket, which is much too high for her, is one of the problems which a small girl such as Linda Eckert encounters on gym day.

Looking over past issues of the Hi-Junior for ways to improve their paper is one of the ways in which Mr. Chesley and his Hi-Junior Staff make our Junior Hi newspaper a really fine paper.

Moving chairs for assemblies is one of the tasks which Bill Bossenberger and John Vieson, members of the stage crew, perform to help keep our school running smoothly.

The "Hi-Junior," a monthly publication printed in the West Hi Print Shop, had a staff composed of ninth grade students with Mr. Chesley, teacher of Junior Hi English, as advisor. This paper publicized Junior Hi sports activities such as basketball, baseball, bowling, football, girls soccer, and intramural competition, and social activities such as the Sweetheart Dance. The jokes, crossword puzzles, and personal-view items were well written and afforded many hours of pleasant reading. The time spent in writing, editing, and preparing the copy for printing of the "Hi-Junior" was worth the effort as shown by the favorable comments of the readers.

The Student Council installation of officers necessitated a special assembly. This activity required the stage crew to be actively engaged in manning the house lights, spotting lights, manipulating the stage curtains, placing the microphones advantageously and setting chairs in proper order. The Student Council officers and committee chairmen were given seats of prominence, while the homeroom representatives and alternates were seated inconspicuously, because of their lesser responsibilities in the organization. Cooperation was necessary between the Stage Crew and the Student Council body to have a well-presented program

"I'm going to be a Junior Class Officer, too, someday," says Albert Spickard, son of Mrs. Spickard who is advisor to the Junior Class. Cliff Schwandner, Treasurer; Barbara Seyferth, Vice-President; Bob Shimizu, President; and Janet Sanders, Secretary, of this year's Junior Class seem delighted at his idea.

JUNIOR CLASS OFFICERS ARE ELECTED IN OCTOBER

With the coming of fall each year, school activities take on new vigor at Western Hills. Cool, crisp, autumn days stimulate almost all students to do their best. Classrooms are busy with activity. Dances, parties, and hayrides are enjoyed by all. Clubs and other organizations get into full swing with the acceptance of new members and the election of officers for the year.

An election of major interest is that of the Junior Class Officers. Nominations are accepted from the entire class. The two people who receive the highest number of nominations for each office are voted upon to determine the new officers. Another exciting event of the Junior Class is the annual fall roundup. This year it was the gala Dixieland Drag.

Football moves into the spotlight of school events with the excitement of the wonderful games and is enhanced by the rhythm and flash of West Hi's fine marching band. All of West Hi's students can well remember the fun of riding a chartered bus to the football games and the thrill of cheering for the team. The fall season is climaxed each year by the Elder football game, one of the high spots in the life of every Western Hills' pupil.

With their novelty act, Kay Yearout and Janet Voll helped to carry out the Showboat theme of the Dixieland Drag.

The Junior Class looks forward with anticipation each year to the Roundup, one of the highlights of the Junior year. Bob Elliott acted as Master of Ceremonies this year, while the "minstrels" were in the background playing their tambourines.

West Hi's fine library is a busy place before school for many students who wish to study or take out books to supplement their schoolwork.

A football pep rally, held on the field across the street, was an innovation this fall. Excitement ran high as we all cheered together to develop that necessary pre-game spirit. Shown here returning to classes after the pep rally is just part of Western Hills' student body.

FALL—A TIME OF FUN, FROLIC, AND THANKSGIVING

November and Thanksgiving season were here before we knew it. Students carrying all kinds of canned goods and groceries scurried here and there anxiously stocking baskets to be given to the needy. Then came the traditional assembly session to present the baskets. Representatives from various districts stepped forward to accept the baskets and thank the students of West Hi for their unselfish thoughtfulness. Afterwards a solemn quiet fell upon the group as a prayer of thanksgiving was offered.

This reflected the serious side of Thanksgiving but there's another side. Football is in the thoughts of many and to prove it several hundred turned out at the pep rally the night before Thanksgiving. Surrounding a huge bonfire, students stood with mud up to their knees, cheering, shouting, and encouraging the team for the big game the next day. After joining voices in the Battle Song, everyone went home cold, tired, and muddy, but confident of success. The next morning dawned, a cold, dreary morning, but this was Thanksgiving, the day of the Big Game, the day West Hi played Elder!

Each year at Thanksgiving the pupils of Western Hills take pride in filling baskets of food for the needy. Pictured are Judith Kleemann and Helen Benjamin filling one of the many baskets.

The pride of our Junior Hi and Reserve teams are Patti Perkins, Colleen Corcoran, Toni Sillman, Pat Liggett, Marlene Chinn, and Sandy Schwarz, who are pictured performing one of their cheers.

BASKETBALL SEASON BEGINS — CHEERLEADERS GO INTO ACTION

Christmas is here and with its coming, much activity. The Business Club party is pictured here with some members, E. Zimmerman, M. Schultian, B. Sailers, J. Holten, B. Strunk, M. Wilhelm, R. Runck, E. Kimball, S. Leyman, grouped around the tree singing and having refreshments.

Jim Hughes' band provided the background of rhythm and jazz for the Sweetheart Dance.

SWEETHEART DANCE IS JUNIOR HI'S SOCIAL DEBUT

Christmas has come and gone, but over half a year is still before us. During the remaining months many events will occur to elate us. Exams will exact careful preparation and worry, but they will pass and the excitement of the first big dance for the junior high will dominate our thinking. Will I have a date for the Sweetheart Dance? Will mother buy me that new taffeta dress? Then suddenly it is all a memory—a pleasant memory to Jeffrey Spragens and Marilyn Rupprecht who were crowned king and queen by Karen Lundin. The days slip swiftly by. We work, we study, we go to basketball games. March arrives and with it, Bandwagon! Orchestra rehearsals, dance routines, costumes, and scenery fill the auditorium with vibrant activity. Before we have recovered from the flurry of Bandwagon, the Easter trips are upon us. Some go to Washington to see how our country is run. Others go to New York, to walk on Fifth Avenue, to see the glamorous sights of the metropolis. Everyone has a wonderful time. Such a few days are left now, and there is so much to crowd in—the Prom, Carnival, Senior Outing, Class Day, and finally Graduation.

Jeffrey Spragens and Marilyn Rupprecht are smiling happily as they are crowned king and queen of the Sweetheart Dance.

Parking is a problem at Western Hills, even with bicycles. A few members of the bicycle brigade, Mike Hensley, Alan Baker, and William Meinders compare the latest gadgets in bicycle equipment.

Wowie, look at the duds! Maroon W is all duped up and ready to p'ay the faculty. Good luck, fellows!

Gee, this is even worse. How old is this faculty? Surely hope they don't win!

Sh-h-h-h-h! Please don't tell anybody. The faculty won. Pure luck!

MAROON W YEAR SPARKED BY HILARIOUS STUDENT-FACULTY GAME

Maroon W, the organization of boys who have earned their letter for participation in a sport had another big year of successful activities, smoothly conducted by officers, Bill Graves, Ralph Bruns, Dick Mohaupt, and Bill Gilbert. Providing a successful start for the year's activities was the annual Dream of Maroon and Cream Dance, climaxed by the crowning of Kaye Kaemmerle as the honored Dream Queen. No school year would be complete without the traditional Maroon W-Faculty basketball game held in the new gym. Strikingly designed pajamas, vests, and hats seemed to be in the height of fashion for the occasion. A big outing and a fun-filled hayride ended the boys' memorable year with a flourish.

Leaving school after a committee mee ing are the Senior Class officers, Jim Schaal, Treasurer; Jean Tuerck, Vice-President; W lma Erhardt, Secretary, and Ned Hauss, President.

THE CLASS OF '56 ENJOYS FELLOWSHIP AND WORK

Seniors shared work, fun, and new experiences throughout the year. As they planned for further education and careers, university-bound students had the thrill of visiting several campuses and prematurely participating in college life. Pupils preparing in business fields visited various industries and some even became engaged in occupations at these firms. Along with work, the Senior Class spent many hours at "fun-frolicking" activities planned by the class officers. The Senior Round-Up provided the first opportunity for the Senior Class to share fun and companionship as a unit. A few months later, the seniors, still in high spirits, spent an early morning of chatting and laughter as they enjoyed a luscious meal at the Senior Breakfast. The year wouldn't have been complete without one more group gathering, the Senior Outing, which occurred in late spring. Although our senior days were anxious ones, we gained a closer union with our entire class by sharing fun, fellowship, and work.

Pantomiming "You Are So Rare to Me" at the Senior Round-Up are Jim Stergiopoulos, Tom Corcoran, Dave Uhl, and Jim Schaal.

Senior girls, R. Muggenborg, R. Luegering, B. Gerhardt (standing), and Carol Landwehr (kneeling at right) share the Christmas spirit with their little sisters, P. Yeary, C. McVicker, C. Johnson, D. Vorherr, P. Burd.

Featured at the Hedda Hopper Hat Party are P. Ober, J. Cruse, J. Buck, M. Van Lieu, C. Staft, K. Springmyer, J. Lugannani, L. Hale, C. Cole.

SENIORS ENJOY PARTIES, PICNICS AND SENIOR BREAKFAST

The purpose of the Senior Girls' Club is to unite all senior girls in a bond of friendship and fellowship throughout their last year at Western Hills. The activities this year included a big-little sister party, a hat party, a Christmas party and a picnic at Rapid Run Park. The big-little sister party introduced seventh grade girls to their big sisters who aim to help them become better acquainted with and accustomed to their new school. The hilarious hat party taxed the ingenuity of everyone who entered an original hat in competition for the prettiest, funniest, and cleverest. At the Christmas party, big and little sisters had an enjoyable time exchanging gifts and eating refreshments to their heart's content. For the last activity of the year, the girls had a picnic at Rapid Run Park. Such fun they had—having contests, playing games, and eating. But in addition to the fun the girls had themselves, they didn't forget the needy. They filled baskets at Thanksgiving, Christmas, and Easter.

It was only 8:00 o'clock in the morning February 8, 1956, but voices could be heard chattering and trays clattering in the West Hi lunchroom. Seniors were gathered for their special breakfast. Each starving senior gladly gobbled up the scrambled eggs, sausage, rolls and milk. Following the breakfast, a happy hour was spent for entertainment. Here we have Dan Curd and Bill Graves on the "ever-popular uke."

One second to go! The moment was tense! Over the loud speaker came these words: "Presenting Doreen Spackman, our Football Queen for 1956." Completing her court were Irene Meyer and Maureen Allen, attendants.

Beauty, popularity, and intellect are a few of the many qualities revealed in the personalities of our queens and their attendants. Becoming a candidate for queen is indeed the dream of every popular senior girl, but only a few attain this honor. Those girls who are nominated, however, await the event of crowning with suspense and anxiety. Although each candidate may not receive the crown, those defeated graciously praise the chosen queen.

Between halves at the Woodward game, suspense reigned throughout the gymnasium. The announcement of Georgia Stewart and Linda Hale as queen attendants was followed by jubilant shouts as Maureen Allen was crowned Basketball Queen.

To West Hi this year came the new experience of a prom on a party boat. It was great fun and will be remembered by all, especially by the queen, Linda Hale and her attendants, Arlene Guthrie, and Jean Tuerck. How enchanting it was to be dancing under the stars, aboard the "Avalon"!

Doreen Spackman and Esther Casuto were given the opportunity to exercise their leadership qualities as they assumed the offices of Principal and Assistant Principal, respectively, during Girls' Week at Western Hills.

WESTERN HILLS IS SHAKEN AS THE STRONGER SEX RULES FOR A DAY

Girls in Cincinnati were recognized during the annual Girls' Week celebration early in March. Throughout this eventful week, young women were introduced into fields usually occupied by men, namely, politics and government. Western Hills participated in Girls' Week by setting aside one day when the school was operated entirely by Senior girls. This day proved very interesting and educational to the fortunate girls elected to fulfill special offices. The three counselors pro tempore experienced unbelievable problems which arose between parents, teachers, and children.

One of the busiest girls was the nurse who excused many ill students and helped treat other miscellaneous accidents. Climaxing the week was the election of our Doreen Spackman as Mayor of Cincinnati for one day. Doreen related that although her power as mayor was very limited, she was convinced that a woman could do the job efficiently. Having gained a better knowledge of the way the city and school are run, girls have made that first vital step toward "women in politics."

The problems of an administrator may well be the topic of conversation among our three men of distinction. Perhaps Mr. R. W. Cadwallader, the newly appointed principal of Withrow High School is giving sage advice to our new principal, Mr. A. J. Havlovic and the new assistant principal of Gamble Junior High School, Mr. Robert H. Lowe.

AN EXCITEMENT-FILLED YEAR DRAWS TO A SURPRISING CLOSE

What sort of day was it? It was a day like all days. The sun peeped over one of the seven hazy hills. Some 2800 students grumbled as they hastily turned off blaring alarm clocks. They dressed, sleepy-eyed, ate their usual breakfasts, caught their usual rides to school, carried the usual piles of books. Yes, Monday, April 9, 1956, was a day like all days until the buses deposited their passengers at the doors of Western Hills High School. Then things began to happen. First there was a rumor; then the rumor grew. Faces showed amazement, consternation, unbelief. As the day wore on there was greater speculation, more concern. Not until three-thirty in the afternoon was the rumor confirmed. Yes, our beloved principal, Dr. Rayburn Cadwallader, was to become principal of Withrow High School; our counselor, Mr. Robert Lowe, had been placed as assistant principal of the new Gamble Junior High; and our assistant principal, Mr. Arthur Havlovic, was appointed as the new head of Western Hills High School.

AS WE LOOK TOWARD GRADUATION WE PAY TRIBUTE TO OUR WISE LEADERS

To Mr. Havlovic, stepping into the vital post as principal of Western Hills, we extend our sincere congratulations and best wishes for success. Because we know Mr. Havlovic and realize his desire for the continued improvement of West High, we have no doubt that he will promote the best interests of our school, using effectively his knowledge of school management, and his experienced understanding of student problems. Despite the fact that he has spent his years here as head of disciplinary problems, Mr. Havlovic has come to be admired and well liked by students and teachers alike for his fair-mindedness and sense of humor. It is with pride and respect that we welcome our new leader.

To Mr. Lowe, we confess our sorrow at his leaving, but want him to know how proud we are of his progress. His sound judgment and warm-hearted desire to help others certainly assure him a continued successful future, whatever he may choose to do. Our gratitude for his active and enthusiastic sponsorship of senior and junior class activities can never be expressed. Certainly the last two issues of our prize-winning annual would have had a hard time keeping out of the "red" without his capable and efficient assistance as financial adviser. Good luck, Mr. Lowe.

To Mr. Cad we reluctantly say goodbye. In our hearts there are not the words to describe our admiration for him and the sense of loss we feel. His ten busy years of friendly, thoughtful guidance will never be forgotten by the countless teachers, parents, and students with whom he came in contact. The warm and friendly spirit of our school we attribute, in large part, to Mr. Cad. His life has been a worthy example for all of us to follow. We sincerely hope he will not soon forget West High and the many true friends he made here. We are grateful to have had him for a friend and principal.

We accept these changes because WE BELIEVE

"God gives to every man the virtue, temper, understanding, taste that lifts him into life, and lets him fall in just the niche he was ordained to fill."

—De Tocqueville

GRADUATION—

an end and a beginning

It is thus each year of life comes to us for each day a clean white page; and we are artists whose duty it is to put something beautiful on the pages, one by one.

A Memorable Year

• Congratulations to the Student Body and Faculty of Western Hills High School for completion of another outstanding year.

• The Staff of your annual has worked exceedingly hard to give you a superb book and one which portrays the high lights of memorable activities.

• Neither time, effort nor expense have been spared to provide you with a permanent record, attractively presented and complete in every detail.

• To preserve the photography and literary efforts of the Staff, the best grade of materials have been combined with skilled workmanship to provide the finest quality yearbook.

• We are proud that the 1956 Staff elected us to help design, print and bind "The Western Hills." We have earnestly endeavored to fulfill the confidence placed in us.

We, the staff of 1956, wish to express our deepest thanks and appreciation to those who have been of such great assistance in helping us try to produce a successful yearbook.

First of all, we thank Uncle Russell Benson and his assistant, Duncan Scheidt, for the terrific job they did with the photography and for their constructive advice and criticism.

Our appreciation goes to Norman "Buddy" Shaw and the Benson Printing Company in Nashville for their excellent printing job, and to Margaret Carey, Fred Nohr, and Frank Percell at the Publications Department of the Indianapolis Engraving Company for their competent service.

The fine work done by Mr. Roy Boeh of Cheviot on our senior pictures and photos of school activities certainly deserves a vote of thanks.

We wish to thank Mr. Robert Heidler of the Times-Star for letting us use his pictures of the maple season which are found on pages 47 and 96.

A debt of thanks is owed to the Kingsport Press for the splendid cover which they perfected for us.

We also wish to show our gratitude to the administration and faculty of Western Hills for their kind assistance and cooperation.

We acknowledge the helpfulness of Harper & Bros. in giving us permission to use various quotations which appear in the book.

We know we can never thank our advisers, Miss Weber and Mr. Lowe, for the wise advice, inexhaustible patience, and many hours of hard work which they so willingly gave.
